FIRST ARREST IN INQUIRY INTO LYNCHING OF NEGRO AT COLUMBIA

George Barkwell, Formerly Proprietor of Garage, Accused of Providing Tools Used by the Mob in Breaking Into the Prisoner's Cell.

ANOTHER SIMILAR INFORMATION ISSUED

Special Grand Jury Instructed to Put Aside All Fear and Personal Feeling in Conducting Its Investigation.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 2.—The first arrest in connection with the lynching here early Sunday morning of James T. Scott, negro employee of the State University, was made today when the Sheriff took into custody George Barkwell, formerly proprietor of a garage. Barkwell was charged in an information filed by Prosecuting Attorney Hulen with having conveyed to the mob the tools used in releasing a prisoner charged with a felony.

A second information has been filed by Hulen, naming a farmer residing north of Columbia, and specifying the same offense. His name has not been made public. Hulen said his purpose in causing the arrests was to enable witnesses to view the men before testifying before the special grand jury, which convened this afternoon.

Charge to the Jury.

Circuit Judge Walker of Fayette, sitting for Judge Harris, who is ill in a hospital, charged the jury to make its investigation without fear or prejudice. His charge was:

"Upon order of the regular Judge of this court you have been selected and summoned from the body of the county to serve as a grand jury. You know, gentlemen, under the law you grand jury possesses the highest power given to any body of magistrates. The Prosecuting Attorney has no power or authority to summon witnesses before him, no power or authority to compel them to make oath or affirmation, and no power and authority to compel them to reveal what they may know regarding violations of the law.

But the law, gentlemen, has vested in the grand jury and in them solely the power to summon witnesses, to compel their attendance,
to require them to take oath or affirmation to speak the truth and to examine them regarding their knowledge of violations of the law, and to compel them to testify or submit them to this court for contempt proceeding.

Told to Find Out the Truth.

"Gentlemen of the grand jury,
you have been called to consider certain serious charges that are current to the effect that a number of men late Saturday night or Sunday morning broke into the jail of their county and forcibly took from the jail a negro, James T. Scott, who was in prison charged with a felony, carried him away from the jail and killed him by hanging or some other means.

"As I have said you are specially instructed, gentlemen, and charged to investigate these reports regarding violation of the law within this county. It is your duty in considering these cases to summon all witnesses that you may think know anything about the law. But if it is your duty to examine them and find out the truth of the matter.

"It is needless for me to say, gentlemen, that in considering this alleged offense it is your duty, as your oath indicates, to lay aside all hatred, malice or ill will on the one hand, and on the other hand it is your duty to put aside any fear, favor or affection that might influence you. In other words, gentlemen, in following your oath you should lay aside any personal feeling that you may have, you should put aside any personal opinion that you may have in regard to this case or to any material phase of it.

Sworn Duty Pointed Out.

"It is your duty under your oath to follow the law as it is written on the books. It is not the province of this jury to try or pass sentence; it is not your province to forgive or condone any offenses; it is not within your province to overlook any violation of the law. But if it is your duty as an inquiring body to call all the witnesses that you may hear of all that you are able to find out about who may know anything about the alleged transactions, and to bring them before you and examine them strictly and conscientiously to ascertain whether in fact dozen or more addresses on the way.

ARMY MEN OFF ON NONSTOP OCEAN-TO-OCEAN FLIGHT

Mac Ready and Kelly Leave New York in Hope of Reaching San Diego Tomorrow Evening
—Will Pass St. Louis Tonight.

By the Associated Press.

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., May 2.—
Lieuts. John A. MacReady and C. G.
Kelly took off today from Roosevelt Field in the army monoplane, T-2, hoping to make a nonstop transcontinent flight to San Diego, Cal., within 32 hours.

The aviators, who failed recently to fly across the continent from west to east, hopped off on their second attempt at 12:37, Eastern standard time.

Weather reports received at the field this morning showed a clear weather throughout the East with rain in Arkansas.

The T-2 carried 750 gallons of gasoline, 32 gallons of oil and 25 gallons of water for the 425 horsepower Liberty motors. The total weight of the ship with pilots was 10,850 pounds.

A photograph of Lieuts. MacReady and Kelly appears on the pictorial page of the Post-Dispatch today.

The two pilots will guide the big monoplane entirely by compass, checking up on their flight from time to time as they pass over large cities or rivers. If any trouble developed during the flight from New York the aviators planned to descend at Dayton. The rest of the course will be on a straight compass course from Dayton to San Diego. The T-2 will pass to the south of Indianapolis during the evening and the pilots will have an opportunity to check up on their course during the nights by the light of St. Louis to the south and later those of Kansas City.

When daylight comes tomorrow
the pilots will look for Emporia Hutchinson, Kan. Railroads leading into Albuquerque and near Pa-N. M., will give them their location late in the day, when they will head for El Centro, Cal., near a pass through the mountains which will guide them into San Diego.

Scott Field Lights to Be Kept Burning All Night.

Scott Field, near Belleville, will be kept illuminated all night tonight
as a beacon for Lieuts. MacReady and Kelly. Maj. John A. Peggler, commandant at Scott Field, said the flyers, if they pass near St. Louis, ought to reach this vicinity between midnight and 1 a. m. tomorrow.

AURORA, Ill., May 2.—Discovery of surgical instruments in the bungalow of Warren J. Lincoln, lawyer and horticulturist, who disappeared
Sunday, were the subject of inquiry by the authorities today. No trace has been found of the missing man.
Theories of slaying or kidnapping are being investigated.

The search for Lincoln's estranged wife and her brother, Byron Shoup, also continued. Authorities believe that the surgical instruments may have belonged to her. This theory was based on the report of Edward Lincoln, brother of the missing man, that he had found in his brother's bungalow clippings from the classified advertising columns of newspapers and that he believed the advertisements were placed in the newspapers by Mrs. Lincoln.

The declaration by a chemist that crimson spots found in the bungalow were human blood have strengthened the belief of investigators that Lincoln was slain, although others are considering the kidnapping theory on the basis of reports that automobiles had been seen near the Lincoln nursery Sunday night or early Monday.

Sentenced to Penitentiary
on Concealed Weapon Charge

Negro, Arrested by University City Police, Pleads Guilty and Gets Two-Year Term.

Circuit Judge Weideman at Clayton, today sentenced Sil Dunbar, 27,
a negro headcarrier, living at 4202 W.
Maffitt avenue, to two years in the penitentiary, following his plea of guilty to a charge of carrying concealed weapon.

Dunbar was arrested March 9 by University City police, after he was discharged from a job on Olive street road because of an altercation with other employees in which he flourished an automatic pistol. He had the weapon in his overall pocket when arrested.

PLANS FOR HARDING'S TRIP

President to Spend July 4 in Portland, Ore., Under Present Arrangement.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The ten-ative schedule for President Harding's Western trip as now arranged will permit him to spend the Fourth of July in Portland, Ore. The day following the President plans to sail for Alaska.

White House officials said Mr.
Harding desired to reach Alaska about July 10, and it was pointed out today that arrival in the territory on that date would be possible only if the President's departure from Portland on July 5.

On returning from Alaska, the President expects to land at Seattle and then proceed eastward over the northern route with a half-

FINNISH AGREEMENT OPERATIVE.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The debt-refunding agreement with the Government of Finland was formulary executed yesterday and, pending ratification by Congress, becomes tentatively operative.

The settlement is the first negotiated with foreign nations that borrowed money from the United States during the war to be placed in effect. The agreement was calculated on a debt of $9,000,000. The terms are virtually the same as those of the British agreement. Payments are to continue 62 years.

WOMAN AND MAN ARE EXECUTED FOR CANADIAN MURDER

Mrs. Lassandra, First One of Her Sex to Be Hanged in Dominion in 24 Years—
Reprieved Once.

By the Associated Press.

FORT SASKATCHEWAN, Alberta,
May 2.—Mrs. Florence Lassandra and Emilio Piccarriello, were hanged today for the murder of Constable Lawson last September. Both protested their innocence on the gallows. Piccarriello paid the penalty first and 41 minutes later Mrs. Las-sandra was executed. She was the first woman to be hanged in Canada in 24 years.

Desperate efforts were made to save Mrs. Lassandra's life. The Canadian Council spent yesterday considering appeals for clemency, but Sir Lomer Gouin, Minister of Justice, announced that the Cabinet had decided Mrs. Lassandra must pay the full penalty.

Mrs. Lassandra is the first woman in the history of Alberta as a province of the Dominion to pay the supreme penalty for murder. The efforts to save her life, however, appear to have been futile, but she was instrumental in raising a reprieve for her from Feb. 21, the day on which she was to have been hanged.

The killing of Constable Lawson occurred in front of his barracks at Coleman, in the southwestern part of the province, Sept. 21, last, and grew out of the enforcement of Alberta's liquor laws and an attempt to break up liquor running operations along the United States border.

Evidence at the trial disclosed that Piccarriello, known as "Emperor Pic," and reported to be head of a band of "bootleggers," and Mrs. Las-sandra, who was his housekeeper, drove to the police barracks in search of "constable Lawson" when it was found reported that Lawson had killed Piccarriello's son in a skirmish with bootleggers. Lawson was called from the barracks and while he was grappling with Piccarriello was shot to death by the woman.

The man, she declared, told her of the Crown's Nest Pass country, but were captured two days later by the provincial police.

The pair were convicted upon the testimony of Constable Lawson's two brothers, who were eye witnesses of the killing.

Mrs. Lassandra denied just before she was led to the scaffold an alleged confession that she fired the four shots that ended "constable Lawson's" life. The man, she declared, told her the shooting. This he denied.

Mrs. Lassandra on the scaffold said: "Why do you hang me when I didn't do anything? Is there anyone here who has any pity?"

Guards, ignoring her appeal, quickly prepared her for death, and just before the trap was sprung she said she forgave everybody.

More Rigid Enforcement.

Not only has the Court's decision definitely established that no interfering liquor can be brought within the province, but the decision, said Daugherty, said, by its interpretation of the terms "transportation" and "importation" will make for more rigid enforcement generally of prohibition and customs laws.

Department of Justice officials asserted in this connection that the application given to the latter term would help greatly in combating smuggling along the coast and the Great Lakes.

As to the Government's policy regarding liquor serving on shipping board vessels in view of the established right of American ships to carry liquor outside the three-mile limit, on the basis of indications given by Chairman Lasker after con-fering with President Harding yesterday, it appeared probable that the Government would remain firm in its position on the question which would be set forth shortly in a public statement.

Cabinet Considers Question.

Daugherty issued his comment
after he had spent several hours studying the decision and after the ship liquor question had been discussed at the Cabinet meeting.

After reviewing his own opinion,
the Attorney-General said the Supreme Court had placed "the final stamp of approval upon all of it except only the right of American ships to carry and sell liquor on the high seas and in foreign ports, but even that the Supreme Court has stated that Congress may make such prohibition if it so desires."

GERMANY OFFERS TO PAY $7,500,000,000 AND PROPOSES A RHINE PEACE TREATY

NOTE TO ALLIES AND U. S. SAYS SUM IS LIMIT SHE CAN PAY

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, May 2.—Germany's latest reparation offer proposes that the sum total of her obligations in cash and kind under the Versailles treaty be fixed at 30,000,000,000 gold marks ($7,500,000,000).

The German Government, in a note made public here today simultaneously with its dispatch to the entente and Washington governments, proposes that 20,000,000,000 of the total in gold marks be raised before July 1, 1927, by a bond issue, at normal rates of interest, on the international money market. Five billions would be raised before July 1, 1929, in the same manner, and the remaining sum similarly before July 1, 1931.

The note asserts that Germany, in accordance with existing treaties,
also will make payments in kind,
which are to be credited to her account.

The note expresses the Government's conviction that the new proposals represent the utmost limit of Germany's capacity to pay, and expresses grave doubt as to whether the offer does not exceed her ability.
In view of the heavy dislocations and weakening of the Reich's economic organization caused by the Ruhr occupation.

In case the creditor Governments do not share Germany's belief that the note into consideration, regarding a higher estimate, in view of her general condition, the Berlin Government proposes that the whole
decision of an international commission free from every political influence, as suggested by Secretary Hughes.

Payment Guarantees.

Payments in kind are to be guaranteed by long term private contracts, but no violation of which would make offenders subject to fines.

The note proposes that the first 20,000,000,000 gold marks of the total of 30,000,000,000 be offered for subscription immediately. Interest on bonds up to July 1, 1927, would be taken out of the loans themselves and would be paid into a special fund under control of the Reparation Commission. If 20,000,000,000 gold marks could not be raised by means of a loan before July 1, 1927, interest of 5 per cent would be paid on that sum from said date, in addition to 1 per cent for amortization.

The note asserts that Germany is making her offer without desisting from her program of passive resistance, which will be continued until the areas occupied in excess of the stipulations of the Versailles treaty are evacuated and until conditions on the Rhine are restored according to the terms laid down in the Rhineland agreements.

Guaranteeing Stabilization.

Fulfillment of Germany's obligations, the note continues, depends on the stabilization of her currency;
therefore, it is necessary, in connection with the regulation of the reparation problem, to bring about a methodical and permanent stabilization in order to remove the apprehensions of other countries with respect to ruinous German competition. Strengthening of her currency also will enable Germany to restore her internal finances, the note says.

In order to realize this program,
and also to safeguard the interests of those who finance the loans, the German Government says it is essential that there be no more forcible seizure of securities, that no future sanctions be imposed, that Germany be freed from the unproductive expenses with which she is burdened, and that she also be liberated forthwith from all political and economic restrictions.

The proposals also suggest that, in behalf of the economic rehabilitation of Europe, the countries con-

TESTIMONY HEARD REGARDING DEATH OF STUDENT IN 1921

Young Woman Who Received Note From Freshman Shortly Before Class Rush Found, Official Says.

INQUEST CONTINUED UNTIL FRIDAY

Policeman Tells of Removal of Skeleton From Beneath Pier—Rope Found Lying on Bones.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Pending further investigation, the coroner's inquest into the death of Leighton Mount, Northwestern University freshman, believed by the authorities to have lost his life in a boating accident in 1921, was continued today until Friday after preliminary testimony had been heard. The skeleton of the boy, identified by means of a belt buckle and scraps of clothing, was found Monday under a pier in Evanston.

Aside from the announcement of Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Peden that Doris Fuchs, a young woman who received a note from Mount shortly before the freshman-sophomore class fight in September, 1921, had been found, and that her testimony would be taken, the inquest developed nothing of importance. Peden did not disclose whereabout of the young woman.

Father Testifies.
J. L. Mount, a traveling man, father of the youth, testified his son was in good health prior to his disappearance. Chief of Police Leggett of Evanston and Policeman William Lanning testified briefly. Lanning told of the removal of the skeleton after it had been found by a boy. He said there was a piece of rope about two and one-half feet long lying on the bones. The rope was not knotted. The short length of rope, it was learned from students, was such that each of the freshmen provided himself with on the eve of the class fight.

A complete list of freshmen and sophomores who were attending Northwestern at the time Mount disappeared will be demanded, according to the coroner. As many of them as can be found will be questioned, he said.

The identification, first made by Mrs. J. L. Mount, Leighton's mother, from a belt buckle and bits of clothing, was made positive last night when Dr. F. H. Ivey, the family dentist, recognized work he had done on young Mount's teeth. He said he agreed with certain fillings, and he said he remembered vividly the form and color of the youth's teeth.

A crowd of students and others packed the Evanston Police Station for the inquest. The prohibition law becomes more complicated every day. Were it not for the suggestion that the Supreme Court is the last word in dignity and probity, it would be legitimate to assume these high and august judges had their tongues in their cheeks when delivering this Solomon-baffling judgment.

"All must sympathize with the Government of the United States in the difficulty it is meeting," said the Manchester Guardian. "But the American Supreme Court decision drives a coach and six through a tenet of maritime international law that has been upheld since first took shape by no nation more zealously than America herself."

"The right of immunity of cargoes that are in transit has never all been questioned."

PARIS, May 2.—The Post-Dispatch correspondent is informed that under circumstances will French liners set out across the Atlantic without wines and other liquor. Should the Supreme Court ruling lead to interference when the liners enter the three-mile limit, arrangements will be made immediately to make Halifax, instead of New York, in future. The only other project being considered is for French, British, and even American liners to get together and keep patrol ships outside the limit to take on liquor stocks. But it is not believed weather conditions all year round will render this plan feasible.

Alfred Barron, 19, a chauffeur, of 1120 Locust street, is held in $10,000 bail following his indictment yesterday by the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter. He was driving his motor truck on April 24, about 12 miles an hour, when it ran down and killed Genevieve Krakowicka, 5 years old, of 1414 North Tenth street, in front of her home.

Barron had previously been ordered held by a coroner's jury on a charge of criminal carelessness. At the inquest he testified he was driving the little girl, who was playing with a ball, ran in front of his truck to recover the ball. Witnesses testified, however, that the truck was going from 15 to 20 miles an hour and that it skidded several feet before striking the girl.

COAST GUARD IS DIRECTED TO KEEP EYE ON RUM FLEET

Court liquor ruling, so far as it affects foreign ships, with opposition that even goes the length of calling the decision "American arrogance." The Westminster Gazette says of the decision:

"The prohibitionist crusade has ceased to be a question purely domestic in the United States. It threatens to affect the liberty of citizens of other countries traveling on foreign ships and to lead to direct conflict between the actual laws of the United States and other nations. It is to be hoped the American Government and the American people will have the sense not to allow matters to be pressed to this length."

The Daily Express comments: "The prohibition law becomes more complicated every day. Were it not for the suggestion that the Supreme Court is the last word in dignity and probity, it would be legitimate to assume these high and august judges had their tongues in their cheeks when delivering this Solomon-baffling judgment."

"All must sympathize with the Government of the United States in the difficulty it is meeting," said the Manchester Guardian. "But the American Supreme Court decision drives a coach and six through a tenet of maritime international law that has been upheld since first took shape by no nation more zealously than America herself."

"The right of immunity of cargoes that are in transit has never all been questioned."

PARIS, May 2.—The Post-Dispatch correspondent is informed that under circumstances will French liners set out across the Atlantic without wines and other liquor. Should the Supreme Court ruling lead to interference when the liners enter the three-mile limit, arrangements will be made immediately to make Halifax, instead of New York, in future. The only other project being considered is for French, British, and even American liners to get together and keep patrol ships outside the limit to take on liquor stocks. But it is not believed weather conditions all year round will render this plan feasible.

Chauffeur Indicted for Manslaughter for Killing of Child.
Alfred Barron, 19, a chauffeur, of 1120 Locust street, is held in $10,000 bail following his indictment yesterday by the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter. He was driving his motor truck on April 24, about 12 miles an hour, when it ran down and killed Genevieve Krakowicka, 5 years old, of 1414 North Tenth street, in front of her home.

Barron had previously been ordered held by a coroner's jury on a charge of criminal carelessness. At the inquest he testified he was driving the little girl, who was playing with a ball, ran in front of his truck to recover the ball. Witnesses testified, however, that the truck was going from 15 to 20 miles an hour and that it skidded several feet before striking the girl.

CONAN DOYLE HERE FOR LECTURE TOMORROW

He Says His Mission in U. S. Is More Important Than That of Any Other Visitor.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who is in St. Louis for a two days' stay, considers his present errand in the United States more important than any of the missions on which English and European literary folk, soldiers, statesmen and business men have been coming to this country since the war.

He is here to speak on spirit communication, and will deliver his lecture "Recent Psychic Evidence," at the American Theater tomorrow night. He spoke last night in Chicago.

"The reconstruction of Europe is nothing to this," Sir Arthur said, speaking to a Post-Dispatch reporter of the importance of the subject which he is presenting in his lectures. "This work is permanent. It is a revelation of God, which He has chosen to make in His own way. It has come to me not as belief, but as knowledge and I am glad that I have enough voice, and enough personality and previous acquaintance with the public, to get a hearing for this message."

Like the Mississippi.
The author of "Sherlock Holmes" and "The Lost World" reclined on a couch in his room at Hotel Chase as he talked. He was still weary from his Chicago experiences, and was not ready to say that he would play any golf or go to any baseball games while in St. Louis. He wished to see more of the Mississippi River, which he had crossed for the first time this morning, and which he considered a beautiful stream, as well as the highest he had ever seen. Yes, he would insist on the word "beautiful." He meant also to drive about the city, but there was no definite plan. Particularly, no plan for meeting with any spiritualist organization or individuals here.

Sir Arthur is not giving his time, either here or in England, to forming or building up organizations. There are others to do that, he thinks. He expects to see believers in spirit communication, and churches which shall have preachers as well as mediums—in some cases the preacher will be the medium. St. Paul, he remarked, was a medium as well as a preacher, and he quoted texts from the Epistles. C. P. BELL, SENTENCED TO WORKHOUSE, PAROLED

Must Pay His Third Wife $40 a Month for Support or Serve Year's Term.

Christian P. Bell, 31 years old, of 442 West Pine boulevard, today was sentenced to a year in the workhouse, and placed on parole by Judge Hochfelder for failure to support his third wife, Mrs. Hattie Gerbell, 47, of 558 McLanar avenue.

"You're a big, husky fellow," said the judge. "Get out and go to work. Bell must pay his wife $40 a month or his sentence will be imposed."

According to Bell's testimony, it was not in the agreement between his wife and him when they married, Aug. 29, 1920, that he should work. "She said she had enough for us both," Bell asserted. "I wasn't supposed to do anything. She said she loved me enough to overlook all my shortcomings."

Although he inherited $200,000 from the estate of his grandfather, Christian Peper, tobacco dealer, Bell told the court he was broke. He admitted he has done very little work, but said he did help out at a motor cycle repair shop and sales-room owned by Mrs. Bell.

His wife alleged he drank to excess, that he would not work and that she was continually being called upon to spend money to get him out of trouble. She has been married four times.

Bell was divorced by his first wife in 1918 and his second wife, for cause, in 1920. He filed suit for divorce last October, but withdrew it when the court ruled he would have to pay $150 a month alimony. He was arrested in Hot Springs, Ark., April 2 and was brought here on requisition papers. He is the son of Nicholas M. Bell, former Excise Commissioner.

3-YEAR GUARANTEE SOUGHT
Symphony Society Will Discuss Campaign for Fund.

Campaign plans for a guarantee fund to cover three years will be discussed at the annual meeting of the St. Louis Symphony Society, which will be held on the evening of May 22, at the St. Louis Woman's Club.

The orchestra will by then have completed its spring tour, and Director Ganz will report on the trip and on plans for next year's tour. Invitations to the annual meeting are being sent to business and musical organizations, and also women's clubs, with the hope that the session may be representative of as many interests as possible.

POLICE "ROOKIES" GIVE AUTO DRIVERS SHOCK

24, in Civilian Clothing, Make 90 Arrests for Traffic Violations in Congested Area.

Twenty-four police "rookies" sent into the downtown congested area yesterday attired in civilian clothing to enforce automobile regulations, made 86 "ticket" arrests, four actual arrests and clashed with automobile drivers on numerous occasions because of the officers' method of approach.

One woman reported she was seated in an automobile waiting for the return of her husband when a young man, wearing civilian clothing and a cap, stepped up to the car. "Who owns this machine?" he asked, sharply.

"It's none of your business," the woman answered. "I'm a police officer," the young man said, displaying a badge. "Well, you didn't say that at first; you look more like a madman than a police officer," the woman retorted.

The "rookie" waited until the husband reached the machine and then addressed the "rookie" rather sharply before they learned that the accused were in fact policemen.

One young woman refused to believe the "rookie" was an officer and even after being taken to Police Headquarters she insisted that the "rookie" was in error 20 minutes as to the time her machine had been parked.

The "rookie" was not until her father had been summoned to Police Headquarters. The "ticket" arrests were made under the recently adopted plan of the department of permitting a number of officers to appear in court as directed on a notice left with him by the officer.

The "raids" on the congested district were planned by Capt. Gierk, recently placed in charge of the traffic bureau. He said it resulted from numerous complaints that drivers were disregarding parking and other regulations in the district between Market and Twelfth boulevard, Market street and Washington avenue.

Twelfth boulevard, Market street and Washington avenue impose. Ecotoplasm is quickly soluble in light."

Ecotoplasm, as has been explained in special articles based on the Doyle teachings, is declared by Sir Arthur to be the connecting link between the material and the spiritual world. He describes it as a putty-like substance which appears in the vicinity of mediums during severe spirit tests, and he says he has handled ecotoplasm, and that photographs in his possession show it. The form of this substance is connected, in his belief, with the movements of material objects which are sometimes a part of spirit seances.

Sir Arthur, in his lecture tour of last year, of which the present tour is a continuation, described the future life in quite exact, almost dramatic fashion. His description embraced Heaven and a sort of purgatory, but no Hell.

Bats of Description of Heaven.
The reporter asked whether the descriptions of heaven were based on any definite information. "They are based on what hundreds of the departed have told me, including my son and my brother," Sir Arthur replied. "Their stories do not disagree in any way."

"We have learned from them that the orthodox Christian, when he dies, goes to a place of waiting, where he is expected, whereas the orthodox Spiritualist is prepared for what he finds."

"If the Christian expects Christ to be waiting there to receive him, he is disappointed. As well expect the King of England to meet him at the Dover pier. What we have learned is that they all look on Christ as the greatest among them, though they do not dramatize about his relation with God, and that it is their greatest experience—one not accorded to every newcomer—to enter his presence."

About the Use of a Dark Room.
"If you were asking a photographer to develop a plate for you," Sir Arthur said, "you would not insist that he do it in daylight. You would be willing that he should take the plate into a dark room. When we deal with certain forces we have to meet the conditions which they impose."

Hill Heirs Use Kelly Pool Balls to Divide Estate

Famous Paintings, Valued at Hundreds of Thousands; Diamonds and Rubies and Antiques Distributed in Game of Chance.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
ST. PAUL, Minn., May 2.—For more than a week heirs of Mrs. Mary Hill, widow of James J. Hill, the "Empire Builder," with the aid of the little leather bottle and its numbered ivory balls, familiar to all players of Kelly pool, have been engaged in a division among themselves of the famous paintings, valuable jewels and household furnishings, forming part of Mrs. Hill's estate.

Stocks, bonds and other securities owned by Mrs. Hill at the time of her death were not included in the division, which came to an end yesterday at North Oaks, the Hill country estate. Among the paintings which now will be scattered among the homes of the several heirs are a number by artists of world renown, purchased abroad and in the East during the lifetime of Hill, with values at present only to be estimated by laymen, but which in the inventory of the estate are placed at several hundred thousand dollars.

Strings of pearls, diamond rings and diamonds in various settings, emeralds and rubies, formed a greater part of the jewelry that has been the subject of much heated discussion, especially among the feminine members of the group of heirs. Many antiques, oriental rugs and other furnishings of the Summit avenue mansion and country house also are among the goods disposed of during the last 10 days.

Mansion May Go to Charity.
There still remain the city home, which has been the showplace of the city, and the stocks, bonds and securities to be disposed of in the future. The North Oaks farm, which Mrs. Hill had deeded to her son, Louis W., prior to her death, still is a bone of contention, a group of heirs insisting that the transfer to Louis was not valid and that they may eventually take the matter into the courts for a decision.

It is possible that the stakes in the game just ended were the largest ever known in the Northwest. Certainly no large estate ever was more uniquely apportioned among the surviving members of the family, and it is said by those who were close to "Jim" Hill in his lifetime, when he was staking his all on the successful construction of the Great Northern Railway, that the method employed by his sons and daughters would have met his approval.

Boy Severely Hurt in Fall down Steps.
Elwood Jones, 12, of 1101 South Eighth street, suffered concussion of the brain and scalp wounds last night when he fell down a flight of six steps while playing with his brother and other boys near 1457 Chouteau avenue. Police were told Elwood was being chased at the time he fell.

Auto Mechanic Ends His Life.
George Ackerman Sr., 46 years old, of 4990 Quinlan street, an automobile mechanic, ended his life with poison last night, after writing a note deploring the fact that his estranged wife had sued him for divorce. She resides at 2909A South Compton avenue. Ackerman requested that his body be cremated.

I'll Take Care of This Affair Myself. Said "Chubby" Fitzgibbons, Shot April 23.
The death of Robert (Chubby) Fitzgibbons, a police character, at city hospital yesterday afternoon from a bullet wound inflicted April 23 has added another homicide to the long list in which there is an element of doubt concerning the identity of the slayer.

Although detectives have been working on the case for eight days, in which time they have questioned suspects, they are no nearer a solution than when they began. As has been told, Fitzgibbons, who was 24 years old, and who had been arrested frequently in connection with police investigation of larcenies and affrays, walked into city hospital at 7 p. m. on August 27, and told physicians he had been shot by an unidentified man at Tremaine avenue and Olive street. He requested that Mrs. Estelle Gates, 726A North Vandeventer avenue, who he said was his wife, be notified.

Policemen ascertained that the shooting occurred in an alley east of Vandeventer avenue, between Delmar and Washington boulevards, and that Mrs. Gates was not Fitzgibbons' wife. He had been a roomer at her house, and had quarreled with other roomers there.

John Collins, another of Mrs. Gates' roomers, was arrested at Vandeventer and Easton avenues a hour after the shooting. Policemen reported that when he saw them approaching, he ran into a store and threw away a revolver containing an empty shell. The odor of burned powder on the revolver, the policemen said, indicated the weapon had recently been discharged.

Collins denied ownership of the revolver, and when taken to City Hospital to see if Fitzgibbons would identify him he declared he had not been near the scene of the shooting. "I'll take care of this affair myself," Fitzgibbons said, when asked if he could identify Collins. "I won't identify anyone."

NO FUN LOAFING, MAN, 76, REFUSES PENSION

John Hickey, Veteran Gateman at Union Station, Starts on 60th Year of Service.

Idleness proved too great a strain for John Hickey, 76, veteran gateman at Union Station and oldest employee of the Terminal Railroad Association, who last December was given a five months' vacation, with the privilege of retirement at the end of that time. Yesterday he reported for duty and started on his sixtieth year of service.

"There's no fun in this loafing business," Hickey said. "All my friends were working and I decided I would feel better on the job."

Hickey is back at gate No. 15, just west of the station master's office on the midway, where he had been stationed since the station was erected. He is known to thousands of travelers and is acquainted with many railroad executives.

"I thought I would work another year and make it 60," Hickey said, "and I might go on and make it 70." When Hickey started his vacation Dec. 1 last, he said he was going to retire on the pension offered him. But station employees said he had been coming down to the gates regularly in the last few weeks, and complained that he had nothing to do. When the vacation ended he announced he was going to work again.

He started his service with the Missouri Pacific 59 years ago and took tickets at the old station at Seventh and Poplar streets. He became an employee of the Terminal when it was organized about 49 years ago, and has remained with it ever since. He resides at 4010 Russell avenue, with a son.

1922 NET EARNINGS OF U. R. WERE $513,092, REPORT SHOWS

The annual report of the United Railways, for 1922, shows a surplus, after fixed charges and taxes have been deducted, of $613,092, which represents net earnings. In 1921 the net earnings were $303,043.

The gross revenue for 1922 was $19,963,556, and net revenues after deduction of taxes, $3,222,325, 46c come from other sources than fares amounted to $202,831, making a total net income of $3,425,156. The Street Car Men's Union today voted to authorize their Wage Committee to request the United Railways to reinstate the wage agreement of 1920. The present agreement reduced the wages of about 1,500 track men, material men, barn men, shop men and car cleaners from 5 to 9 cents an hour. No increase in the maximum wage of trainmen will be asked, but a request will be made for reinstatement of certain working conditions of the 1920 contract.

SAYS MARY PICKFORD'S SALARY
DEMANDS INCREASED FILM COSTS

Former Goldwyn Head Asserts Her Professional Jealousy of Chaplin Prompted Wage Request.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Professional jealousy of Charlie Chaplin caused Mary Pickford to demand $10,000 a week in 1917, after she learned the comedian was drawing a salary of $600,000 a year, it was declared yesterday by Samuel Goldwyn, formerly head of the Goldwyn Picture Corporation. Goldwyn testified before the Federal Trade Commission, which is seeking to determine if the Paramount interests control the motion-picture industry. Goldwyn said that Miss Pickford's demands had made it necessary for the Famous Players-Lasky interests to charge more for her pictures than could be obtained under their contract with Paramount. This came into existence the Art Craft Co., which later added other stars, he said. Goldwyn testified that after the formation of the Goldwyn Co. in 1917 great difficulty was experienced in getting its pictures exhibited in important cities due to control of theaters by the Paramount Famous Players-Lasky interests and the franchisees of the Associated First National. He said he was forced to buy half interests in about 30 theaters, 18 of them being in Chicago and vicinity. Testimony that First National Pictures was organized by 23 theater owners having theaters in 27 large cities in the United States was given by S. L. Rothafel, its first president, and now director of the Capitol Theater here. He said the purpose of the Capitol Theater was to give the best possible showing for Goldwyn films in order to increase the sales in other parts of the country. He declared the only purpose of theaters joining together to purchase films was that better prices could be obtained through collective buying.

News of Interest to Expectant Mothers Washington Information Service

Our National Government has spent millions of dollars in gathering information to help humanity. Such useful information is probably without parallel in world history. To help bring this information more directly to the thousands of people in St. Louis and adjacent territory we have opened offices in Washington.

For the next few weeks we shall take up the intensely interesting subject of "THE CARE OF THE EXPECTANT MOTHER" (Pre-Natal Care): (a) Diet for Expectant Mothers; (b) Quantity of Food; (c) Clothing, etc. This matter is taken from official Government bulletins. Other intensely interesting subjects will be taken up from time to time.

Records show that as high as 42% of infants dying under one year of age, in a registered area, did not live to complete the first month of life. Furthermore, of this 42%, practically seven-tenths died as result of conditions existing before they were born, or of injury and accident at birth. Of those that lived less than one week, practically 85% died of such causes; and of the number that lived less than one day, about 94% died of these causes. Such conditions caused the Government to compile a series of monographs on the care of children as well as statements regarding pre-natal care for mother and child.

The Census Bureau estimated that in one year 300,000 babies, less than one year old, died in this country; and it is authoritatively stated that at least half of these deaths were needless. It is not the purpose of the Government or The B. Nugent & Bro. Dry Goods Company to invade the field of the medical or nursing professions, but to furnish such statements regarding hygiene and normal living as every mother has a right to possess in the interest of herself and her child.

To help in such good work this store has opened offices in Washington, and this information is ABSOLUTELY FREE. Simply write to our Washington office. Do not even include postage. We'll pay it. Address Washington Offices, Nugent's, 913 District Bank Bldg., Washington, D. C. Ask for Series A No. 1.

PNEUMONIA PATIENT FATALLY HURT IN FALL

Coal Miner Either Fell or Jumped From Third Floor Window of Sanitarium.

Louis Steffenat, 39, of Collinsville, Ill., a coal miner, died at City Hospital early today after falling or jumping from a third-floor window of the Lewright and Whitener Sanitarium, 2009 East Grand avenue, while delirious from pneumonia. He suffered fractured ribs and internal injuries.

Steffenat was received at the sanitarium April 29. Police summoned to the place last night were told Steffenat had been missed by his nurse when she returned to the room after a brief absence. She found the screen had been removed from a window and on looking out saw Steffenat on the ground below. He fell 50 feet.

TRIES TO ESCAPE FROM JAIL

Supposed Hammer Murderer Aided By Young Students in Honduras.

TEGUIGALPA, Honduras, May 2.—The American woman who is held here by the police as Clara Phillips, the California hammer murderer, attempted to escape from jail Sunday night with the assistance of several young students, the eldest 16 years old. She managed to get into correspondence with the students, begging them to come for her and her sister at 2 o'clock Monday morning.

The police learned of the plot and found a ladder close to the wall of the jail, which they allege was intended for her escape. Fifteen students are under arrest charged with complicity in the plot.

The woman refuses to have photographs of herself taken and declares that when she talks the American public will be shocked with her story.

Says Music Makes Life Endurable.

DALLAS, Tex., May 2.—Primitive man never really lived because he knew only the essentials of life, whereas civilization has developed music, a nonessential, which makes life endurable and enjoyable. Alfred L. Smith of New York, general manager of the Music Industries Chamber of Commerce, declared yesterday before the fourth annual convention of the Texas Music Merchants' Association.

HELD FOR SHOOTING NEIGHBOR

Texas Man Says He Was "Tortured" by Curious Electrical Machine.

By the Associated Press.
FORT WORTH, Tex., May 2.—Bond has been denied R. J. Wright, who was arrested Tuesday morning after he had shot and dangerously injured his neighbor, Henry Bates, while the latter was milking his cow at his home five miles west of the city.

The prisoner declared that Bates owned a curious electrical machine which was used to torture him by sending messages through the air. Wright declared that he did not want to be released from jail, for he feared the "instrument" which he claimed Bates possessed.

MANY PERSONS HURT IN PARIS MAY DAY RIOT

Policemen Attacked at Communist Demonstration but Quell Disorders After Fight.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, May 2.—Rioting, in which scores of persons were injured and one policeman was possibly mortally wounded, marked the close last evening of what up to that time had been the quietest May day Paris had seen in years.

The police were called into the heart of the communist district. Time and again they charged into the "flying masses of demonstrators" and, aided by reserves who closed in from all directions, they were able to beat back the mob and clear the thoroughfares in half an hour.

Other demonstrations, both here and less magnitude, occurred at the same time in Versailles, where a half-dozen police who attempted to make arrests were met with showers of stones and finally had to retire from the scene. There was still another disturbance in St. Denis, where in a general melee a policeman was badly beaten and in connection with which a city councillor was arrested.

Parades Forbidden.
Parades were forbidden in Paris, so most of the strikers spent the day hanging around the street corners in order to be on hand in case any excitement developed. The largest crowd gathered at the headquarters of the General Federation of Labor, where speakers held forth until late in the afternoon.

The riot occurred after a noisy, but reasonably orderly meeting at labor headquarters in the workingmen's quarter. When the crowd came out of the meeting place, squads of mounted foot and bicycle policemen steered the people toward the big open Place du Combat. On the way the throng met four bicycle policemen and surrounded and began to abuse them.

Bottles, stones and other missiles came sailing from windows on both sides of the street upon the encircled policemen, and as the crowd closed in with a rush one of the policemen was badly stabbed in the back, the blade of the knife penetrating his lung. The comrades of the wounded policeman fought hard, meanwhile signaling for aid, and scores of bluecoats soon came charging down the street and effected their release.

Street Cars Captured.
The spirit of fight spread throughout the district, and the massed forces of policemen had a hard time pounding a lane through the mob. Man after man dropped out, badly beaten or cut, the casualties totaling 30 on each side, with scores of others nursing small injuries.

No sooner had the police cleared the street than there came a hurry call from a few hundred yards away from the original scene of the fight, where the demonstrators had captured several street cars. The crowd compelled the passengers to alight and then broke all the car windows, tore up the iron grill work from around the park trees and used the cars for target practice with missiles.

May Day Disorders Reported in Various Parts of World.

By the Associated Press.
MONTEVIDEO, May 2.—Three persons were seriously injured by bullets and many slightly hurt when parading Communists, workers and syndicalists clashed with the police. Rioters stoned a cafe which had failed to close for the day.

LONDON, May 2.—A Rome dispatch to the Daily Mail says that five street car employees at Naples were wounded by the explosion of two bombs placed in a street car.

ROME, May 2.—A Communist was killed during May day disorders in Corniglia, Province of Genoa.

MADRID, May 2.—A number of persons were seriously injured and others slightly wounded last night when the police used their revolvers and swords against a band of May day celebrants who made attacks upon cafes.

BUENOS AIRES, May 2.—At the conclusions of a syndicalistic May day procession here, a riot broke out with considerable shooting. A group of 100 anarchists joined the demonstrators who declined to obey the orders of the police to disperse. The police took strong measures, quickly re-establishing order. The taxi-drivers in the city refused to work and many business houses as well as Government offices were closed.

NO STRENGTH

unhealthy blood, no appetite

Hood's purifies blood restores vitality

If you are tired out, weak, run-down with no appetite, probably your blood is impure and sluggish.

You need a spring tonic. Hood's Sarsaparilla is just the medicine to purify the blood and tone up the entire system. It contains curative properties of recognized value and promptly gives stimulus and vigor to the vital organs of the body.

Taken three times a day, it will quickly prove its merit. Get a bottle today. Ask your druggist.

The tonic for that tired feeling

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

ADVERTISEMENT. STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

CHOOSES TO REMAIN WITH FOSTER MOTHER

Girl, 12, Gives Preference When Testifying in Suit Brought by Real Parent.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Twelve-year-old Alice Beatrice Nuttall, on the witness stand today, chose to remain with her foster mother, Mrs. James Nuttall, of Waukegan, Ill., the only mother she has ever known.

In her childish voice she rejected her real mother, whom she never had known until some months ago, and declared she preferred to live with Mrs. Nuttall.

Her testimony came shortly after Superior Judge David had declared that humanity and not the law must dictate a decision in the case. At that time he said Beatrice probably would be called upon to choose her future home.

Girl Cool and Smiling.

The little girl was cool and smiling.

"I'd rather be with Mr. and Mrs. Nuttall," she said, referring to her foster parents.

"But couldn't you learn to love Mrs. Morris? You know she is your real mother; don't you?"

"Yes," the child replied. "I think I could learn to love her, but not like I love 'Mother' and 'Daddy'."

Judge David then remarked that if he should give the child to the Nuttalls they should not insist on her strict adherence to the church of which they are members. He also warned that she must be given physician's care whenever needed.

To both of these suggestions the Nuttalls gave assent.

Mother and foster-mother tearfully faced each other yesterday while two judges weighed their claims.

Judge Clair C. Edwards of the Lake County Circuit Court is sitting with Judge David.

The Scriptures were quoted liberally by opposing counsel in their arguments, references being made to the judgment of Solomon and to the woman of Samaria. There also were references to Jean Valjean.

Little Alice, sitting wide-eyed in court beside her foster mother, Mrs. James Nuttall, listened without any show of emotion while Mrs. Ada Morris, the real mother, told how she had spent 10 years searching for her child.

Story Told by Mother.

"My baby was born Aug. 6, 1911," she testified. "For two weeks after I was unconscious. I knew nothing of what was being done."

"When I recovered, I asked for my child. They told me my baby was taken away. I pleaded with my sister, Mrs. Malvin Berger, and my mother, to tell me where the baby was. They refused."

"When no one would tell me of the whereabouts of my little girl, I went out of my mind. For two months I wandered about Illinois and Iowa, finally coming to my senses in Clinton, Ia. Again I asked my sister and she told me the infant had been given to the Illinois Home and Aid Society. The society refused to tell me who had taken the baby."

"I went personally to the aid society in 1918. I wanted to find out if the baby was dead, as I had been told. They told me the baby was alive, but they wouldn't tell me where she was. Finally, in November, 1921, I found the record of adoption of Beatrice Childs in the Cook County records. I wrote to James Nuttall, Zion City, Ill., but received no answer. Then I found the Nuttalls lived in Waukegan."

"Did you ever consent to the taking away of your child," asked Judge David.

"I never did. I would never have let her get away from me if I knew."

A letter written by the sister of Mrs. Morris at the time of the birth of the child to the aid society was produced. "My sister is going to have a baby," it read. "I want it taken from her. She is better off without it."

"I am heartbroken since my baby is gone. Christmas would be happy if I had her. I can never rest easy until my child is back in my arms," read a later letter from Mrs. Morris to the aid society and signed "A Heartbroken Mother."

"Will you please let me know if I could get my little girl back," read another letter from Mrs. Morris.

"If father and I were married this week and I want her back, I could support her nicely now," Judge David interposed to criticize the methods of the founding institution which permitted the adoption of the child without the formal consent of the mother.

APPEAL THROUGH ART BETTER THAN TEXT BOOK

Superintendent Maddox Discusses Effect of Beautiful and Practical on Trend of Education.

The Western Arts Association convened yesterday at Hotel Chase for session through Friday afternoon. About 20 teachers of art and vocational training in high schools and colleges of the Middle West are in attendance.

Superintendent of Instruction Maddox spoke in behalf of the St. Louis public schools at the opening session yesterday afternoon. He defined education as the force which affects human behavior, forms right habits and molds ideals.

"The teacher and manual training have a great part in education," Supt. Maddox said. "We are finding that children can be approached more readily through the beautiful and practical than through text-books. The past decade has changed the trend of education. The school now has a definite object in mind."

Explains Use of Arts.
He went on to illustrate how the schools here are using the allied arts in child training.

"Children in the first grade watch a doll house in course of construction by the teacher," he said. "Little girls are asked to bring their dolls to school. I was in a first-grade room the other day when some of the children were putting dolls to bed in a house. 'That isn't right,' one little girl remarked to another. 'You should lower a window from the top.' The teacher at once seized on this remark as the subject of a talk to the children about hygiene and the value of fresh air."

"In higher grades here our teachers frequently construct towns and farms. Several times the City of St. Louis has been laid out. Streets and buildings are named. The children are told what goes on in the public buildings in the model city. Thus they obtain some conception of city government and the work of adults."

Love of the beautiful and latent talents are developed by the art teacher, Maddox pointed out. Thus the tastes and ideals of the younger generation are being molded along right lines. Each child is given opportunity to acquire and expand to its full limits.

President's Annual Address.
Miss H. Estelle Hayden, director of art in the public schools of Des Moines, Ia., president of the association, in her annual address, sketched the progress in art education since the body was organized 23 years ago.

Exhibits of art work from Chicago, Minneapolis, Duluth, St. Joseph, Des Moines and other cities are on view. Most of the addresses are of peculiar interest to teachers and faculty members of St. Louis schools have been invited to attend all meetings.

Mr. Rothenheiser's Confusion.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

MR. ROTHENHEISER apparently is confused as to the various proposals by Frank H. Gerhart for appropriations for the northeast approach and the reasons of the Supervisory Committee in voting them down.

On March 29 Gerhart made a motion $250,000 in bonds be "impounded" from the $3,000,000 program of bond work for 1923, to be held in reserve to meet for the northeastern site, when condemned. The Supervisory Committee rejected it under its policy of approving no appropriations until ordinances and detailed plans are submitted. The vote was 7 to 4.

On April 6 a reconsideration was moved but again was rejected. The vote again was 7 to 6. Chairman W. Frank Carter casting the deciding vote when the ballot was tied at 6. Before the vote was taken President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service stated no appropriation would be necessary until condemnation is completed and this work, not yet instituted, could not possibly be completed before Jan. 1, 1924, when the $5,000,000 program for 1924 will be in effect. The city has until Feb. 10, 1924, to file suit, under a Federal grant.

On April 26 Gerhart made a motion that a proposed expenditure of $1,115,400 on the River des Peres sewer and storm channel this year be reduced to $145,000 and the $250,000 in bonds represented in the reduction be held by the Comptroller as a "special deposit," to pay for the bridge approach site when condemned. Harry Scullin and Guy A. Thompson, committee members, raised a point of order that it was the same proposal for which reconsideration had been refused, and the chairman upheld the point. B. F. C.

A Golf Club in the Park.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I WITH "MUNY Golfers" in sympathy that the Triple A golf course be taken over by the city and maintained as a municipal course. How did it ever get into the park, anyhow? Who gave permission to a private club to take over a large section of a public park and use it for its own purposes? I never heard of such a thing. The next thing, somebody will be opening a pool room in the lobby of the city hall or selling soft drinks in the Courthouse.

It is a shame, when hundreds of many players wait for hours every Sunday morning to get to play, for a club to be operating in the park. If these people want to have a club they have the whole country in which to buy land and start one, if they don't want to belong to any of the present clubs. If they are in there when the golf election comes, I know of one vote that the administration won't get.

ANOTHER MUNY GOLFER.

Where They Have No Service.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

As a reader of your paper I wish to say that it is very gratifying to note the manner in which you have treated the different complaints made of the U. R. street car service, and the reasonable answers given by Col. A. T. Perkins.

The other evening a wagon loaded with several tons of iron broke down in the car track. Three cars were blocked. The trouble-wagon crew and road boss all working as hard as they could to remove the trouble without doing any more damage to the wagon. I suppose some poor fellow on the south end of the line was raving about poor service—the way some complaints are made about the car service a person would think that the motormen are driving their cars into a soft-drink parlor to give them a shower bath.

Out in the northwest part of the city we citizens and taxpayers have no street car service at all. There is supposed to be a line called the Jennings or "dinky" line holding a franchise to operate a street car, but I have failed to see anything that looks like a street car for the past month. A complaint like this is justified and should be brought to the attention of all those who are interested in the progress of our city. M.

A Boulevard Over the Des Peres.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

As a railroad man, I would like to offer a suggestion to the city engineers and Department of Streets and Sewers in connection with the plans for the viaduct at Delmar boulevard and the Washburn tracks, and the closing of the River des Peres. Why not make a real boulevard from the new Washburn Railroad station into Forest Park?

Anything of beauty as seen by strangers from a railroad station will always leave a lasting impression on the mind. A boulevard could be made with a parkway over the crown of the sewer and a driveway on either side; it would also obviate the necessity of disturbing the pavement in case repairs are needed at any future time. I for one am heartily in favor of things beautiful which can be seen in the vicinity of railroads and railroad stations. I might also add that new streets should always be made wide enough to take care of the future growth of the city.

A VETERAN RAILROAD EMPLOYEE.

THE WORLD'S DRY BULLY.

The decision of the United States Supreme Court forbidding foreign vessels to carry liquor within the three-mile limit of our coast and affirming the legal right of American ships to carry and dispense liquors beyond the three-mile limit reduces the logic of prohibition to the absurdity which is inherent in the theory. Carrying fanaticism to its extreme limit, it yet tempers it with business.

The decision places American ships on a parity with foreign ships in the matter of carrying and selling liquor. Both have the right to sale and transportation on the high seas, but neither can hold it within the three-mile limit; so that all ships sailing to or from American ports are practically prevented from carrying liquor.

Thus, while in theory equalizing the liquor rights of American and foreign ships, we attempt to impose our prohibition policy and legislation upon foreign ships and foreigners on foreign ships—we attempt to control the liquor business of foreigners in shipping touching at American ports and regulate the conduct and habits of foreigners sailing in foreign ships not only within the jurisdiction of the United States, but in practice outside, because if foreign ships cannot keep liquor in store while stopping at American ports they cannot carry it at all, except under circumstances which are practically prohibitory.

In order to take away the disadvantages handicapping American ships deprived of liquor in competition with foreign ships having liquor we impose our prohibitory laws on foreign shipping.

It is a high-handed proceeding which will inevitably bring us into clashes with foreign governments affected by the ruling. Under the laws of Italy Italian ships must be provided with wine and liquor for passengers and crews. Great Britain requires a minimum provision of liquor to be carried on British ships. All French ships carry liquor. But regardless of their own laws and customs the ships of all nations must comply with our laws prohibiting the possession or transportation of liquor within American territory.

There is no question of the sale of liquor within the three-mile limit. What we now prohibit does not affect or touch in any way American citizens or their conduct or habits with regard to beverages having more than one-half of one per cent alcoholic content. The sobriety of American citizens and the transporting of liquor for use in the United States are not involved.

What boots it that we offend other nations by interfering with their business and the personal habits of their citizens and create serious complications by ignoring their rights and enforcing our laws against their laws and imposing our restrictions of personal liberty upon them, if we save shipping from loss and put over prohibition on the high seas?

Not only personal liberty but the rights and interests of all nations and the freedom of the seas must be immolated on the altar of fanaticism. The next logical step is a prohibition crusade for the establishing of the reign of Volsteadism with all of its shams and hypocrisies over the face of the earth. Certainly prohibition is the most important thing in the world to the United States and the whole machinery of the Government, its army and navy must be enlisted in its conquest of the world.

ANOTHER ASSET TO THE CITY.

A glance at the architect's drawing of the new Young Men's Hebrew Association Building, for which a fund of $500,000 is being raised, makes possible a visualization of what such an institution will mean to the city and to its young men. The proposed building offers the benefits of home to those eligible to membership as well as the advantages of gymnasium, swimming pool, educational courses, amusement and social diversion. It is to be a builder of character and manhood. A handsome new semi-public building will add so materially to the assets of the city that all races and denominations will take pride and pleasure in its existence.

St. Louis stands badly in need also of a new central Y. M. C. A. building commensurate with the size of the city. It is expected that, before a great while, such a building will be erected. The new Y. M. C. A. Building, enlisted in a similar service, will occupy a large part of the void now felt by the absence of an adequate Y. M. C. A. structure. At the present writing about one-fifth of the $500,000 is yet to be raised in the remaining two days.

"LOOK OUT! IT MAY BE POISONED"

of the campaign. There should be no relaxation of effort until the last dollar is pledged.

SUGAR AND SOCIALISM.

The sugar boycott will gain momentum from President Harding's indorsement, but, with or without that high sanction, the boycott is already in effect. The present price of sugar has made almost every family somewhat careful in its use, and in many families a decidedly reduced consumption has been necessary, but a concerted movement towards curtailment will have greater force. We learned, under Mr. Hoover's direction during the war, what could be accomplished by rationing. We can approximate that result now.

The sugar scandal, however, will not be cured by a buyers' strike, though the organized extortion of the speculators may be halted. The iniquity of a tariff on a daily necessity like sugar, as exposed in this instance, ought to have a lasting and wholesome effect on customs legislation. And if greed were possessed of similar intelligence the present reaction ought to be a warning. If private business is ready to ambush the public whenever it can then private business can no longer be trusted to function honestly, and the public interest demands relief. The only available source of relief is in Government supervision and regulation. Business complaints of Government intervention, but business, as conducted by the sugar barons, compels such intervention. And sugar is not the only sinner.

The specter of Socialism haunts the contemplative hours of every thoughtful citizen. That specter will not be exorcised by vituperative harangues or the ringing resolutions of Chambers of Commerce. If business won't play fair the State will have to see that it does play fair. When an economic order puts as rich and prosperous a nation as the United States on sugar rations there is something seriously wrong somewhere. A plundered public will not be critical of any proposed remedy.

THE BATTLE OF OIL.

The slumish behavior of oil stocks in the New York Stock Exchange Monday, contrary to the general market trend, is interpreted by Wall street as the first skirmish in the long-expected battle between Standard and the ever-growing independents. The particular objective is said to be control of the Mid-Continent field, which, despite the adverse dogmas of geologists, continues to reveal new sands and to pour forth new streams of oil. Control of that field means control of the American market; it means stupendous riches.

The opposing forces, in their serried ranks, look capable of battling for a kingdom, though if Providence is on the side of the heavier battalions Standard should win. Standard commands the greater millions. Presumably, too, it has the superior organization. The independents are on its side, also—the tradition of victory, the legend of invincibility. But what of its Napoleonic leadership? The creator and builder of Standard is now an octogenarian, puttering at golf, the cares of vast estate laid aside, the fortune transferred to his son, who, in the words of a Standard executive, "has never been an oil man." The younger Rockefeller, doubtless, has been trained, like any other crown prince, in the tactics and strategy of his responsibility. But supreme genius cannot be devised. Will the junior Rockefeller prove an eagle who is to find his Sedan in Mid-Continent's forest of derricks?

Well, it should be a Titanic struggle—an Armageddon of oil. And however it end, one thing is already established. That is the myth of Standard's dissolution. Here are the various autonomies of the original dynasty all grouped together, a compact, homogeneous whole. Standard of New Jersey, of New York, of Indiana, of California, of whatever state, are all Standard Oil. Their nominal severality in obedience to a court decree is flung away now. They fight as a unit. Except for the putative independent, Couden & Co., which has enrolled under the Rockefeller banner, it is Standard against the world.

As a spectacle the battle should be impressive. It is a question, however, whether either side should be permitted to win. Consider the prize. The motor age has made oil a decisive product, a commodity whose possession is to determine the priority of nations. May either the Standard or the independents be entrusted with a power that would make its possessor, in effect, a supergovernment?

A PILLOW FIGHT.

CHROMATICS.

THESE are my slaves, ebony and white. Waiting, unmoved and mute, to do my will. To bend beneath my slightest touch; These are my slaves, Each one a master of his song. A melodist, each one, singing his lyric And no other, guarding it dearly As a gem of rare price; These are my slaves, Bringing in their company A myriad joyous gifts of song.

Wandering idly among them My fingers have chosen the jewels of favored slaves. The others they have left Muted and suppliant.

Do you hear? They have betrayed a melody To my delight! These are my slaves, Waiting, unmoved and mute, to do my will. Echoing my changing moods In the whimsies of a satiric valse.

ANALYTICOS.

Sir: I strongly suspect that you will discover the winning of Cynicos to be a tough job, indeed.

Cynicos, who, like Marc Antony, is "a plain, blunt man," is a devoted believer in the material and relies on the theory that a violet is much more attractive on the bodice of a fair damsel than when hidden away under the rubbish of a Creve Coeur ravine. In other words, about your chance upon a languishing violet, by all means pluck it—let it fulfill its proper destiny. With the fair sex constantly hungering for decoration and adornment, why worry about Nature? She is prolific—fear not, she will call forth more violets under the urge of another springtime.

Cynicos admits that he sometimes treats them roughly—and this again likens him to another great character, Mr. Pergottly himself, who in declaring, "You will find us rough, sir, but you'll find us ready," stated the case as clearly and as concisely as Cynicos himself might do. It may appear egotistical, even brazen, for Cynicos to claim kinship to still another famous character, yet candor compels him to admit that "Pope, in 'The Wife of Bath,'" states the case quite properly in the lines:

"A conjurer once, who deeply could divine, Assured me, Mars in Taurus was my sign."

Like the militant widow herself, Cynicos owes to Mars his belligerency, his long-winded endurance, his penchant for poking his nose into somebody's peaceful Sunday outing, his habit of swatting the fly and plucking the violet; and Taurus himself bestows, in addition, sufficient admirable traits to complete a standard edition.

It is true that Cynicos owns a shop, in fact, a curiosity shop, among the exhibits being a pair of philosophers who tried to solve the eternal riddle of the universe, and a man who suffered nervous prostration trying to enforce the rules, "Keep off the grass," and "Do not pluck the flowers"—however, the only "tender thing of life" pawed therein happens to be a cold bottle of beer, an unredeemable pledge according to the mandate of the Anti-Saloon League. Cynicos confesses to a great liking for Just a Minute, and has no hesitation in stating that if any man could win him, that man would certainly be Just a Minute—however, as will be noted at the beginning of this illuminating epistle, the winning of Cynicos is listed as a tough job, too tough even for Just a Minute, unless the latter can repeal the eighteenth amendment, make Europe stop fighting, straighten the earth's axis and remove Mr. Bryan from politics. Such is the opinion of CYNICOS.

The boreal bombardment has ceased, and the blanket of smoke that laid on the city through the winter has lifted. The belated arrival of spring is attested by these phenomena and the failure of the Browns' pitching staff. We are told of musical treats being prepared for us on the hillside in the park, and those of us who revel in the delights of melody and the conquests of the strutting comic-opera hero are looking forward to a pleasant season at the Munny Opera.

It has become the fashion since the passage of the bond issue for individuals to advise the authorities how to spend the money. I would not presume to hint what should be done with a sum totaling millions, but I like to think of helping to spend the opera's modest little $10,000 or so of surplus. If this money has not long since been spent, why not use some of it for rubber runners to be put over the noisy concrete aisles? Then, if we could educate the flapper not to hum the tunes, the mother to leave restless children at home, and the driver of the clattering filver to detour, we might enjoy the music undisturbed by discordant noise.

Remember, O masters of our delightful summer opera, soft stillness, and the night, become the touch of sweet harmony.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

AMERICAN RIGHTS.

From the Cincinnati Inquirer.

IN a land which holds as one of its cardinal principles an equality of rights and where work is considered to be the chief way to success, it should not be necessary for any state or national legislature to enact a special statute to protect citizens in either of these rights. Yet the encroachment of radical theories and of organized class violence upon individual pursuit of both equal rights and of the right to work has created conditions out of which such legislation not only has become necessary, but has been enacted. The Legislature of Utah has taken such a step. Most control of certain recent strikes within that State suggested and compelled it. Gov. Charles Mabey only recently attached his signature to such a bill. It was introduced by a farmer member and passed both houses by decisive majorities. It now is in effect, but no application of it yet has been made, there being no present obstruction of industrial peace calling for it. It is popularly known as "the right to work act." It is intended to apply to strike situations where violence and other present-day means are used to give effect to industrial tie-ups through terrorizing persons who are willing to take the places of strikers. It penalizes severely any who "attempt," individually or by conspiracy, "by means of any kind of force, threat, coercion, intimidation or violence" to cause or induce any person to quit his employment or to keep him from engaging in any employment.

MINIMUM WAGES.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ONE of the arguments used against minimum wage legislation when it was proposed in Ohio a few weeks ago was that it would work an injustice against women workers themselves by depriving them of employment in many cases, employers refusing to pay the wage set. Now, if reports from the District of Columbia are accurate, nullification of the minimum wage law by the Supreme Court is resulting in wage cuts for women of from 30 to 50 per cent. A conference of women has been called for Washington in mid-May to consider steps to meet the situation. Not only are wages being cut, according to reports, but hundreds of women are scheduled to be laid off who will be replaced a little later at reduced figures. This is a matter of concern in several states, as well as in the District. It furnishes an odd light on some of the argument against minimum wage legislation heard at Columbus a few weeks ago.

A COLOR LINE FOR ARTISTS.

From the New York World.

IN drawing the color line against Augustus Savage, the young negro art student who applied for entrance to the Fontainebleau School of Fine Arts in France, the American committee lacked frankness, then, when cornered, offered an indefensible excuse. As chairman, Ernest Fenollosa said that the committee had fully considered the case and finally decided for social, racial, reasons, Miss Savage had been barred. There is one country in Europe where race discrimination is not encouraged, it is in France. There full freedom exists and is generally recognized, and the schools that the Government maintains are open to persons of every race and provided they have the talent that fits them for the required tests. What the American committee has done, in obedience to a false theory of proprieties or whatever it might call them, to impose on the French Art School at Fontainebleau restrictions that the school itself was the first to disavow,

"I think you may rest assured," said the Hon. Calvin Coolidge, "that President Harding is not going to rush headlines into this matter."
Harding rushing headlines into any matter can name his price to any collector of rare old prints.

Still, the President has his moments of impetuosity. In a message to the Mayor of Hartford, "Shak-spear's works," he said, "constitute part of the magnificent joint heri-

peoples."

"This is the forest of Arden,"

JOHN H. MCGOUGH.
The radio broadcasters are having a fight with the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers. "They overlook," says Mr.
Eugene McDonald, "that a song must be known to become popular. There are numerous independent song publishers and song writers who are only too anxious to have us broadcast their selections. A song—or any thing else—must be known before it becomes popular; that is admitted.
But will the radio folks take an unknown song, on its pure merit, and make it popular? And who are some of the 'numerous song writers' who are only too anxious to have their stuff broadcast? And what songs did they write?"

What the radio folks appeal to is the American genius of advertisement, that anything advertised can be widely sold; and that anything not advertised cannot be sold at all; and that anything not sold is virtually worthless.

If the advertising worshippers ever take time to sing, as they always do at the community sings of the Get-together Club, they probably chant:
"My country, 'tis of thee,
Land of publicty,
Of thee I sing,
Land of the railroad ride,
Of signs of Herpicide,
Society, and Multifield,
And everything."

It Seems to Me

Longfellow has become a symbol in the various letters written to us concerning the school system. To those who find too much formalism the poet stands as the arch-type of the tyranny of tradition. But to W.
L. Werner this is just one more human personality which has been throttled by a misconception. Since we have answered some of Mr. Wer-ner's contentions even before printing his letter, it is only fair that we should now permit him to begin with his postscript.

"You say," he writes, "that quota-bility is certainly not proof of any poet's greatness." Perhaps not. But immediately it helps the book reviewer and the unofficial enthusiastic reader in their efforts to praise the work. Later it enables the publishers of gift books to issue selections, maxims, calendars, that pen-trate to the sublimity reading public. Bartlett, Bush, the lucky author, hurried clergymen quote him to audiences that think the quotation is at least semi-divine; propagandists use him in arguments from authority; and copybooks for tender children inculcate his phrases. His name survives the endurance tests, becomes a classic and is in consequence great.

The reputations of Shakespeare, Wilde, Longfellow, and Brown arrases in point. Probably a hundred years from now some enterprising publisher will issue in full morocco
"The Wit and Wisdom of Heywood Brown," a handsome book made up of the choicest selections from letters that you print in your column."

The original brief drawn up by Mr. Werner was much longer. He asked: "Do they (the teachers) still give their (pupils) the poems of Longfellow; and if so, why?" Such a question at once puts you into the heaven school of criticism. Criticism of this type now rampant in New York, know little of past literature, but they were in youth greatly impressed by a picture of half a dozen bearded men entitled
"Our Poets." From these portraits they evolved the astonishing list that Longfellow et al. were born with full-grown beards, congenitally venerable.

"Such are the beliefs of the Heaven school. But the facts are different.
If you really are interested in the names of educators you cannot escape Mr. H. W. Longfellow—like you, a Cambridge resident. Before his work the study of living foreign languages in the United States was a joke. He went to Europe and learned to speak the languages himself. He not only learned the usual French, German and Italian, but he studied Spanish and the Scandinavian tongues. In most of these languages he had to make his own grammar and text books for use at Harvard.
His labor was not in vain. He reorganized the study of foreign languages, and furthermore, he translated enormously for the benefit of the 100 per cent Americans of his day. Under his able direction American college students were required to get more than a smattering of foreign phrases. (In fact, I suspect that Longfellow may really be at the bottom of your failure to acquire a degree.)

"But it is his literary career that we were talking about. Like the late James Huxford, he wrote critical articles that brought vast fields of European culture to provincial America. Like James Branch Cabell, he recovered the spirit of past ages and fashioned romances suited with a philosophy for his age. Like Mary Austin, he disclosed to America the value of its native Indian traditions. Like Vachel Lindsay, he retold, ploughed in, like Ezra Pound, by introduced foreign themes and meters into our language.

He is a better imagist than Amy Lowell. What incident of the Revolutionary War can you remember most vividly? Probably Paul Revere's ride. After all these years you retain pictures of the village blacksmith, the mountain-climbing youth with a banner, the hanging of the crane, Miles Standish's cousin by proxy, the bridge at midnight, the vacant chair, the ivy clinging to the moldering wall, the sweeping garments of the night, and the tent-folding Arabs.

Not only is Longfellow a maker of pictures that linger but he is a maker of phrases that stick. Did you ever think of Death as a reaper? Do you think of Harding as 'standing with reluctant feet in the snow' before the feeling of leaving footprints on sands of time? Do you know the title of Robert Frost's first book, 'A Boy's Will'?

Have you ever noticed verses
Written in unrhymed trochees
Without thinking as 'You read them.
This was swiped from 'Hiawatha'?

"Inescapable in our language are Longfellow's pictures, phrases and rhythms.

Understands a better rebel against provincialism than our young realists, who lead revolts only into a waste land. Sinclair Lewis takes his Carroll back to Maine Street; Miss Cather's latest hero escapes by being killed; various other rebels suggest strong drink or incomprehensible erudition as an antidote. But Longfellow—less busy, made grammar, edited foreign works, translated them, explained them, criticized them, put them on the American map.

"Longfellow at the age of 13 wrote a revolutionary battle lyric. At the age of 29 he was occupant of the Smith chair at Harvard, revolutionized the teaching of foreign languages in America. For a volume of anti-slavery poems. His much quoted and parodied 'Psalm of Life' was a protest against youthful Weavers of

MISS IRENE GODDARD'S BETROTHAL ANNOUNCED

Her Engagement to Edwin S.
Elder of Keokuk, Ia., Made Known at Party.

THE betrothal of Miss Irene Goddard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Warren Goddard, of Brentwood, and Edwin S. Elder, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Elder of Keokuk, Ia., was announced yesterday afternoon at a bridge party given by Mrs. Watts Smith, sister of the prospective bride. Plans for the wedding, which will be a social event, have not been announced.

Miss Goddard is a graduate of Mary Institute and Miss Porter's School at Farmington, Conn. She was presented to society in 1921 at a ball given by her parents at the St. Louis Club. She is a member of the Imperial, the Junior League, and has served twice as a maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball.

Mr. Elder, who has made his home in St. Louis for the last two years, was educated at the University of Wisconsin and served overseas with the artillery during the World War.

Additional guests were invited for tea yesterday afternoon and as each one entered the dining room she was presented with an old-fashioned bouquet of roses and spring flowers to which was attached a card bearing the names of Miss Goddard and her fiancé.

The guests were Misses Leicester
Faulk, Harold J. Edgar, Joseph Seward Gates, Floyd Augustine and her sister, Miss Josephine McDonald of Detroit; E. T. Hough, Mason Scudder, Harold Bixby and her sister, Miss Williamson, and the Misses Alice Little, Doris Drummond, Dorothy McBride, Gloria Gelenger, Mary Etta Randolph, Dorothy Simmons, Elizabeth Luytjes, Carolyn Bailey, Mary Scudder Bond, Elizabeth Terry, Mary Denman Clark, Audrey Faust, and Elizabeth Bockeler.

Social Items

Mrs. Richard Caldwell of Omaha, Neb., formerly Miss Mercedes Dwyer, is visiting her mother, Mrs.
Elizabeth Dwyer, of 4315 Lindell boulevard.

Mrs. Edward Day Rye of 5333
Barnier avenue, will give a bridge luncheon Thursday afternoon. This is the first of a series of similar affairs Mrs. Rye will give during the next few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Walker and their son, William S. Walker Jr., have left the Westmoreland Hotel, where they have been all winter, and have taken an apartment at 5367 Pershing avenue re-sidently vacated by Mr. and Mrs.
William C. Darcy. The Darcys have purchased the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry O'Neil, 6 Hortense place.

Miss Abby Mason, daughter of Mr. William Harrison Mason, of 4149 Westmoreland place, will depart next week for Dayton, O., to visit Mrs. Orrin Jones, and later will go to Wellburg, W. Va., to be the guest of Mrs. Eva Barnes Paine, formerly of St. Louis. Miss Mason will remain away about a month.

A feted visitor in St. Louis is Miss Frances Kilpatrick of Lake Forest, Ill., who is the guest of Miss Margaret Teasdale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Willard Teasdale of 4310 Delmar boulevard. Today Miss Teasdale will have eight tables of bridge for Miss Kilpatrick, preceded by a luncheon, and Sunday Miss Pound, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Laessig of 6308 Waterman avenue, has invited a group of friends for tea and bridge.

The guests at Miss Teasdale's party
today were Misses June Curran, Elizabeth Russell, Virginia Bolin, Eleanor von Brecht, Katherine Starr,
Mary Cecilia Hemp, Margaret Ryan, Katherine O'Hara, Theodore Schu-ler, Marie Lineman, Josephine Crank, Ruth Dutton, Jessamine
Rugg, Janice Feldman, Virginia
Crain, Marion Laessig, Henriette de Penalzo, Helena White, Helen and Elaine Voigt and Misses C. S. Crowdus, A. W. Dehendorf, William O.
Stone, Robert Kennedy, Harry Cantwell, Jerome Kircher and Mrs. Lee Scanlon.

Mrs. Lon O. Hocker of 29 Portland place, departed last night for Chicago to remain several days.

Mrs. F. Holme Morrison of 4711
Washington boulevard, was hostess at a bridge luncheon today complimentary to Miss Katherine Chapman of Chicago, who is the guest of Mrs. Samuel F. Myerson, 5739 Ca-

Undertakers' Garlands. Quite fittingly his grandson a few years ago

have been fired from Columbia University.

"It is said to reflect that unless one dies young like Keats and Shelley, people will always think of men of old as old men. Whitman, who said, 'I am a friend of every dauntless rebel the world over,' is now hidden under the title 'The Good Gray Poet.' Bernard Shaw, when I last saw him, looked much more like Santa Claus than like Satan.
Brander Matthews was once a gay young dog. May I trust that you will in future criticisms rise above the heaver fallacy? This letter may give you time to read a bit of Long-stuff. It would be still longer if I did not have to shave before at-

ST. LOUIS U. GLEE CLUB AND ORCHESTRA IN CONCERT

Baritone and Violinist Are Soloists at Annual Affairs—Large Audience Attends.

The St. Louis University Glee Club and Orchestra, under the direction of Prof. George T. Devereux, and with James S. Clark, baritone, and Maude McCrory, violinist, as soloists, last night gave a generous program at their annual concert in the auditorium of the university. The efforts of both organizations were enthusiastically received by an audience that almost filled the hall, and several encores were granted.

Among the club's selections, such works as Beethoven's "Winter Song," Novin's "When I Am Dead,
My Dearest," Coleridge Taylor's
"Vikings" and Cadman's "At Dawning" were dispatched with pleasing harmony and a degree of volume unusual for a club of less than 20 voices.

The orchestral numbers were Grieg's "Sigtord" Suites (Nos. 1 and 2), Tschickowsky's "Seasons" and "Waltz of the Flowers," Ambrose Thomas' "Raymond" Overture and Moszkowski's Spanish Dances, Nos.
1 and 2.

Kotely's "In a Monastery Garden" and the university's "Alma Mater" by Devereux-Lord, were given effectively by the club, accompanied by the orchestra.

Clark made his first public appearance as a soloist. His singing of Ghees's "Untill" and Woodford-Finlen's "Kashmir Song" attained a professional standard. The best offerings were Wier's "Gypsy Dance" and Grieg's "To Spring."

Maude McCrory, violinist, will remain ten days longer.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Caldwell Mitchell of Flint, Mich., are the guests of Mrs. Mitchell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Simons, 6254 Arundel place. They will remain about a week.

Mrs. Emmett Myers of 5245 Waterman avenue will entertain 12 guests at a bridge party Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Saunders Norvell of New York City has sent out invitations for a bridge luncheon the afternoon of May 12 honoring her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Lee Scanlon.

The patronesses for a card party to be given by the Robert McCulloch Chapter, U. D. C., May 5, at Hotel Chase, are Misses. Walter Saunders, John C. Roberts, J. C.
Crowdus, Robert McCulloch, Hugbrey, W. L. Kline, Robert Lind, L.
W. Ray, Shelby Curlee, J. U. Men-teer, A. G. Meyer, J. P. Higgins and Lon Saunders.

Miss Marguerite Lols Richert, daughter of Joseph W. Richert of Waterloo, Ill., will depart today for New York, to sail for Europe to remain until autumn.

Miss Gertrude Carp of 5630 Delmar boulevard has returned from Miami, Fla., and Atlanta, Ga., where she has been since January.

Combing Won't Rid Hair of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning,
most if not all of your dandruff will be gone and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and

MILITARY FUNERAL FOR NELSON

Private Service, However, Is Held in Home of Late Senator.

ALEXANDRIA, Minn., May 2.— Alexandria today laid to rest its foremost citizen, United States Senator Knute Nelson. Simple and private funeral services at his home here, in accordance with his wish,
preceded the formal military service
accorded a statesman, and a veteran of the Civil War. The military services were at Kinkead Cemetery, just out of town, where Minnesota's "grand old man" was buried beside his wife and five children.

The Senator was stricken suddenly Saturday night while on a train in Pennsylvania en route home from Washington.

Rinso
This new kind of soap
-banishes forever all the drudgery of rubbing

In the big lasting Rinso suds even ground-in dirt is gently loosened and floated off. Only the very dirtiest places need the heaviest rubbing. Use a bit of dry Rinso for this and watch these spots quickly disappear.

Of course you just know that Rinso is wonderful because it is made by the makers of Lux. For the week-in, week-out family wash Rinso is exactly as safe, easy and efficient as Lux is for silks, woolsens and all fine fabrics.

Rinso is the only soap you need for your Monday wash. It takes the place of bar soap—does the whole job. For soaking, for boiling, for washing machines—it is the ideal soap.

Public Now Prefers Vegetable Laxatives

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin affords prompt relief in a natural way

THE public is constantly becoming more discriminating in its choice of things. Those subject to constipation try to learn what makes them constipated, and then avoid it. If constipation persists in spite of all their efforts they take the mildest, most easily tolerated laxative obtainable, and not a drastic physic that upsets them for days afterwards.

Over 10 million bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are sold a year, a large proportion of the people of this country must believe that this mild vegetable compound is the proper remedy for them, and so it is. No need to take salt water and powders that dry up the blood; coal-tar drugs in candy form that produce skin eruptions, or calomel that salivates. These drugs are "heroic measures", over-effective, weakening and griping.

The best constipation remedy is the one that moves the bowels without shock to your system, and such a one is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a vegetable

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that moves the bowels without shock to the system?" I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate trial. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, and has been satisfactorily sold for 30 years. Unlike the harsher physics it does not produce a habit, and increased doses are not required; in fact, it so trains the stomach muscles that in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with.

Many take a teaspoonful of Syrup Pepsin once a week as a health safeguard. Others use it only when required, as, for example, Mrs. J. W. Burroughs of Little Rock, Ark., who finds it equally valuable for herself and the children, and Mr. Enas S. Costa of Watsonville, Cal., whose family uses it regularly. Try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in constipation, biliousness, piles, headaches, sallow complexion, and to break up fevers and colds. A generous-size bottle can be had at any drug store, and it costs only about a cent a dose!

the board. Several board members have indicated their willingness to provide funds, but that they were awaiting a plan from the superintendent. The board recently indicated that its funds are ample by a cut in the tax rate for next year.

Supt. Maddox then said that he which would permit the establishment of a school for crippled children by next autumn. He denied that inertia in his department had been responsible for the long delay. The Community Council took from its files today a resolution passed last year requesting the Board of Education to do something for the instruction of crippled children. Attached to the resolution was a reply from C. G. Rathmeyer, assistant superintendent of instruction, saying the Department of Hygiene had completed a survey of the needs of crippled children and that the results of the survey were in the hands of Supt. Maddox, who would take up the matter with the board at one of its early meetings.

AMERICAN HISTORY FOR CHILDREN

Philippines, Peacefully Conquered by Spanish Friars, Finally Asked for Home Rule—When This Was Refused, an Insurrection Began Under Aguinaldo.

Spanish Mission in Philippines.

By HENDRICK VAN LOON,
Author of "The Story of Mankind."

(Copyright, 1923, by the Christy-Walsh Syndicate.)
THE United States declared war upon Spain in order to help Cuba obtain its independence from that country. The first battle of the war, however, was fought not in Cuba, but many thousand miles away, upon the other side of the world.

How did the Spanish fleet happen to be in Manila Bay, and who was Emilio Aguinaldo? In order to answer these questions, we shall have to go a long way back.

In 1493, Pope Alexander VI issued a bill dividing all the world, not possessed by any Christian Prince, between Spain and Portugal. Everything west of the dividing line went to Spain and everything east of it to Portugal. There had been some discussion between the two countries regarding the Molucca Islands, Spain claiming that they lay just inside the western boundary of her share, and Portugal claiming that they lay just inside the eastern boundary of her portion of the globe.

In order to settle the discussion, King Charles I of Spain ordered a certain sea captain named Magellan to go out to the Moluccas and find out their exact position. On the way thither, Magellan discovered a group of islands which he claimed for Spain and named the Archipelago of San Lazarus. Years later, this name was changed to that of the Islas Filipinas, in honor of the heir to the Spanish throne, later to become famous as Philip II.

This great archipelago consists of no less than 8141 islands. Nearly 3000 of them, however, contain less than one square mile, and 92 per cent of the whole territory of the group is contained in 11 islands. Luzon, the largest, lies to the north of the group, and Mindanao, the next in size, lies to the south, and between and around these two lie all the little islands.

The first permanent colony in the Philippines was founded in 1565 upon the island of Cebu by Miguel Lopez de Legaspi who brought with him five Augustinian friars and 400 men. The friars set to work to teach and baptize the natives, and for many years a quiet and peaceful conquest of the islands went on, a conquest carried forward by missionaries and not by soldiers.

In the course of centuries, the friars had become very wealthy, and much of the best land was owned by the monasteries. Meanwhile, some of the natives had become well-educated, thanks to the Jesuit schools which the friars had established, and had traveled around a bit, and had seen how the rest of the world lived. In 1896, they decided that the time had come to throw off the burdensome rule of the friars, and so presented a petition to the Spanish authorities, asking for a certain measure of self-government. Their request was refused, and they took up arms. Their commander in chief was an educated native, named Emilio Aguinaldo.

Now, just at this time, Spain had her hands full of trouble in Cuba, and she had neither the time nor the money to carry on another war so far away from home. So the Spanish authorities in Manila offered the insurgent leaders 400,000 pesos (about $200,000) if they would disband. The offer was accepted, and Aguinaldo and 35 of his associates left the islands and went to Hongkong. Here he met Admiral George Dewey of the United States Navy, into whose ears he poured forth his tale of woe.

PLEA FOR BALLOT COMPARISON TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT

Murmann's Attorney Ordered to Present List of Number of Ballots Under Controversy.
Arguments on the application of Ben Murmann, Republican Justice of the Peace in the Fifth District, whose election is being contested by Edward J. O'Hare, for permission to compare ballots with poll books, were heard by Circuit Judge Landwehr yesterday and taken under advisement.

Murmann's attorney was ordered to present to the court today a list of ballots which are under controversy. Republicans have questioned about 400 ballots on which a cross appears in the square before O'Hare's name. Murmann is asking permission to ascertain by the poll books who voted these ballots so that the voters may be asked to testify whether they actually did vote for O'Hare.

Murmann's attorneys contend the ballots were tampered with after the precinct officials had finished their count and tabulation of the vote. Attorneys for O'Hare contend that errors of precinct officials are responsible for any discrepancies. They opposed the application of Murmann, claiming the granting of it would destroy secrecy of the ballot.

CORPORAL PUNISHMENT BARRED IN SCHOOLS OF BELLEVILLE

Board of Education, in Revising Rules and Regulations, Votes to "Spare the Rod."

"Spare the rod" is the edict of the Belleville Board of Education which, in a revision of the rules and regulations governing the public schools, declares "lickings" must be abolished. Corporal punishment was permitted under the old rules, but with the revision no punishment is to be meted out to maintain discipline. "In these modern times, when schools are up to date, corporal punishment should be abolished and discipline maintained without having to resort to a stick or ruler," said Harry W. Kircher, chairman of the Rules and Regulations Committee. Under the rules of the past all cases of corporal punishment had to be reported to the parents of the pupil and superintendent on the day when administered.

Rickard Winks as Kearns Says
Gibbons-Dempsey Title Go Is On

Champion's Manager Tells Scribes He Agreed to Terms Over Long-Distance Phone, but That No Papers Have Been Signed
—New York Promoter Takes Affair as a Joke.

By Bert Igoe.

The Post-Dispatch's Eastern Boxing Authority

NEW YORK, May 2.—Jack Kearns says he closed negotiations at 4 o'clock yesterday morning for a bout between Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, and Tom Gibbons, the bout to take place at Shelby, Mont., on July 4.

As championship matches go and have gone before, this long distance closing of a match of such importance was drab and tame in the extreme. In all the history of the ring, especially where a heavyweight championship was concerned, there has been no such matter-of-factness about arranging a match for the title.

As a rule, it is customary to hire
the ballroom of some de luxe hotel, inform the movie and camera men, invite the scribes and order a few cases of the sparkling waters of the luscious grape.

Jack Kearns, however, says the match is on—said it in the presence of Tex Rickard and any number of newspaper men, yesterday afternoon, in the tower of the Madison Square Garden.

Though no articles of agreement have actually been signed and not

By terms, Kearns meant expenses
guarantees, fares and moving picture rights.

"But," broke in a scribe, "are the papers signed?"

"Well, no," said Kearns. "Either
I will go to Chicago to sign them or Molunby will come here," at which the tall Texan winked again.

It is possible that Rickard has in mind a July 4 offer for Dempsey around these parts and that his winking was to warn the writers that something big was going to pop soon.

It is ridiculous to think that Kearns would tie up the champion to an old town venture—yes, a gamble when the big money is right here in town. Kearns seemed so unconcerned about the whole matter, actually yawning his way through it, that these did not seem to be any good reason for believing that the Shelby affair will stand up or that the bout will ever come off in that district.

MURDER CHARGE AGAINST SAILOR FRIEDMAN BARS
NEW YORK APPEARANCE

CHICAGO, May 2.—William
"Sailor" Friedman, lightweight pugilist, who was suspended yesterday by the New York State Athletic commission "until criminal charges against him are disposed of," facing a second trial here on a charge of having slain Abraham Rubin two years ago in a raid on a saloon.

At his first trial he was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to 15 years in prison. He filed an appeal and obtained a new trial which is now pending.

Friedman's real name is David Edelman. The slaying was said to have resulted from a quarrel over his sister.

Friedman's second trial is scheduled to begin on July 4.

A stick whittled toward erecting the Shelby arena, Kearns said it was on.

The louder he said it, the more
Tex Rickard grinned and winked.

Just what connection there was between Kearns' announcement and Rickard's twinkling eye could not be fathomed. Rickard went so far as to deny that he had anything to do with the proposed bout.

Then Kearns said that an arena, seating 40,000 would be erected at Shelby. Rickard grinned once more.

He probably was thinking about the Jersey City hotel and wondering why Kearns would want to toss the champion at Shelby for a possible 40,000 capacity house, when the pair

would just about fill the Jersey City saucer. Kearns explained that he had "settled matters" over the telephone. Loy Molunby, representing Shelby, being on the Chicago end for the promotion of the bout and he in New York, acting for Dempsey.

"They agreed to all my terms, including the selection of a referee to my own liking," said Kearns.

By terms, Kearns meant expenses
guarantees, fares and moving picture rights.

Wilderness to Be Made Favorite in Preakness Stakes

Great Showing of Campfire Colt Stamps It as One of Year's Best.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2.—Another formidable factor has been added to the East's hopes in the Kentucky Derby, with the sparkling form displayed by Wilderness in his races in Maryland. R. T. Wilson's good colt demonstrated in his two victories over clever opposition that he must be given a chance with the best of them.

In his first start of his 3-year-old form the crack son of Campfire was a sprint affair of six furlongs in which he took the measure of Blazes, Hidder and Champlain, high-class sprinters. This is quite a feat for a 3-year-old against older horses.

On Saturday Wilderness came right back and finished first under the wire in the Chesapeake Stakes, an event for colts and fillies, 3-year-olds and upward, at a distance of a mile and one-sixteenth. The form chart shows that Wilderness displayed plenty of speed and won by a length and a half. Barbary Bush,
The Clown, Dunlin, Daniel and St.
Valentine finished in the order named behind Wilderness.

Wilderness Sure to Go.
Winning this race was enough to convince Trainer T. J. Henley that the colt is fit and ready and can go a distance and therefore he has signified that Wilderness will be a certain starter in the Kentucky Derby.

Wilderness, last fall at Laurel, was the National Stakes, in which Dunlin was the contender, after he (Wilderness) had finished a fast-closing third to Sally's Alley and Zev in the Belmont Park Futurity. He is a stout chestnut of his daddy's type, Campfire, his sire, a son of Glambada and Nightfall was a completely nondescript horse that stood over a lot of ground short of leg and heavy of barrel.

The American thoroughbred breeding industry has acquired a stock horse of the first class in Campfire.
Siring two such colts as Wilderness and Tall Timber in his first season was a remarkable achievement.

Will Be Preakness Favorite.
Wilderness has the physical cut of a 3-year-old champion. Moreover, he is easily placed, his action is smooth and unswerving, he manages weight easily. It is a fairly sure thing that he will be the Preakness favorite.
What his status will be at Churchill Downs on May 19 depends on what he does at Pimlico on May 2.

KID PANCHE WINS BY KNOCKOUT OVER RUSSO
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 2.—Kid
Panche, claimant to the featherweight championship of the South, last night knocked out Jimmy Russo, featherweight champion of Michigan, in the last round of a scheduled 12-round bout. Both men fought furiously, with honors about even until the seventh, when Pancho scored a knock-down. He also floored Russo in the eleventh.

In the semifinal Jack Willis knocked out Sam Rice in the sixth round of their scheduled eight-round bout. Both men are local welterweights.

RUTH IS PAID $4333.33
MONTHLY BY YANKS, SUIT FOR DAMAGES DEVELOPS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, May 2.—Babe Ruth is receiving $4,333.33 a month from the Yankees, H. L. Huston, secretary of the New York American League baseball club, stated in an affidavit filed in city court yesterday. The affidavit was sent to Justice Wendell after a judgment had been granted against Babe Ruth in favor of David Davison for $500.51. Davison secured the judgment in Municipal Court for damages to his automobile alleged to have occurred when Babe Ruth's machine was in collision with it.

Col. Huston, in his affidavit, stated that Ruth had $4,333.33 due him as salary yesterday and $4,333.33 due him on June 1. He did not go into details regarding Ruth's contract with the Yankees and did not say whether or not Ruth has a bonus coming to him under his contract, or whether Ruth's monthly stipend lasted for 12 months or only six.

Ben Johnson last year estimated Babe's pay at $22,000 annually.

Here's Tangle of Names.
Here's an odd situation on the Worcester club of the Eastern League.
Albert E. Powell, millionaire coal dealer, is the owner, and president of the club. Albert E. Powell, no relation to the coal dealer, is a right-handed pitcher hailing from a prep school, who will get a trial with the Worcester team. And the odd thing is that Player Powell also is in the coal business when not playing ball, but not on a millionaire scale by any means. He is a junior member of a coal dealing firm at Hartford.

ST. LOUIS VOICES
STRONG OPPOSITION TO RAIL MERGER

Merchants' Exchange Only Important Organization to Indorse Consolidation Plan
at Two-Day Hearing Here.

Overwhelming opposition was expressed here against the proposed consolidation of railroads, at two public hearings, held Monday and yesterday by Commissioner Henry C. Hall of the Interstate Commerce Commission, to get the views of shippers and others on the tentative plan for a merger of the 1600 railroads in the United States into 19 great systems.

The points made by St. Louis witnesses were that the consolidation as proposed would stifle service competition, impair established service, retard development and extensions, particularly in the Southwest, make a way station or intermediate point of St. Louis to the detriment of the St. Louis district and in favor of Chicago, and possibly prevent rate adjustments in behalf of shippers and traveling public.

The St. Louis hearings ended yesterday afternoon. On May 13 the Commission at Washington will conduct a special hearing for the railroads to be affected by the proposed consolidations, after which the Commission will make its report to Congress.

The purpose of the plan of consolidations is said to be improved transportation on a more efficient and economic basis, but opponents of the plan deny that this expectation would be realized. The strongest opposition has been evidenced at Denver, Kansas City and St. Louis, this city presenting the most concentrated opposition, according to Commissioner Hall.

Merchants' Exchange Indorses. The only organization of importance in St. Louis that favored the plan was the Merchants' Exchange, represented yesterday by Charles Rippin, traffic commissioner, who expressed the belief the merger would be beneficial. The exchange believes, he said, that the scheme would work specific economies, improve car service and give producers the benefit of better rates.

Other witnesses had testified that to make Chicago the headquarters of the Southwestern lines radiating from St. Louis would cause a natural drift to that city of business that now comes to St. Louis, but Rippin took the contrary view. "St. Louis is 250 miles nearer the Southwest than Chicago," he pointed out, "and I do not believe the consolidation would make St. Louis a way station, because of rates. If there is to be any benefit in rates the people are entitled to them, as the plan is intended for the good of the whole country."

He added that reports from country correspondents indicate that something ought to be done about the car-supply situation.

Opposition to the plan as likely to prove detrimental to St. Louis, the State and further development of the Southwest was expressed by the Missouri Public Service Commission, Chicago & Alton Railroad, St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, Real Estate Exchange, lumbermen generally and other big shippers. Most of the witnesses for the opposition were questioned by Glendy B. Arnold, who represented the opposing forces.

Division of Wabash.

The opposition was summarized in the testimony of C. B. Bee, for the Missouri Public Service Commission, who said that the consolidations as proposed would not materially reduce the cost of transportation; would not materially shorten the haul of any considerable volume of traffic; and would not furnish more direct routes.

He added that he believes it would be detrimental to the interests of Missouri to disintegrate the Wabash system and to add the Missouri lines of the Wabash to the Union Pacific as proposed. On the whole, he said, the proposed consolidations would seriously stifle competition and work irreparable injury to the interests of Missouri.

Under the plan now before the commission, the most important Southwestern lines would be consolidated in System No. 19, the Princeton-Katy-Cotton Belt, in which the Chicago & Alton would be included, and in System No. 19, known as the Chicago-Missouri Pacific, including the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, Missouri Pacific, Kansas City Southern, Kansas City, Mexico & Orient and Kansas City, Oklahoma & Gulf.

BAKERS GET WAGE INCREASE

New Contract Provides More Pay for Various Classes of Workers.

A $2-a-week wage increase for 1200 union bakers and increases ranging from $2 to $3.75 a week for 580 other bakery employees affiliated with the Bakers' Union became effective yesterday with the signing of the 1933-1934 employment contract with the St. Louis Master Bakers' Protective and Benevolent Association, comprising all of the wholesale bakeries and most of the retail bakeries.

Bakers employed in retail shops maintaining a force of less than five men, formerly receiving $36 and $38 a week, will get $38 and $40, and those employed in larger shops, who formerly received $38 and $40 weekly, will be paid $40 and $42 under the new contract. The wages of special delivery drivers were increased from $25 to $27.50 a week; those of wagon washers from $27 to $30, and those of stablemen from $24 and $25 to $26 and $27 a week.

This train stops itself when danger is near

THE newest wonder in transportation developed by the railway engineers is automatic train control. The train of tomorrow will stop itself, should occasion arise—such as the engineer becoming suddenly incapacitated through illness. For this purpose a special Exide Battery has been developed to ride on the locomotive and give the impulse that sets the brakes.

Riding on locomotives is strenuous work for a storage battery, but the Exide, used in army tanks, mine locomotives, and street trucks, is accustomed to rugged work, and during the entire history of storage batteries it has demonstrated its capacity to stand hard and constant usage.

In the daily life
of the nation

Wherever a battery must be reliable, there you will find the Exide doing its silent and ungrudging duty. Exides operate railroad switches and supply the power for lights in the train. Every time you telephone, it is an Exide Battery that sends your voice over the wire. Exides give power and light to farms. Most of the government and commercial wireless plants use Exide Batteries.

The kind of battery for your car

These things should mean much to you when you come to replace your automobile battery, for you need the best battery there is to give constant service for a long time in starting and lighting your car under any and all conditions. You will find that sturdy power is built into the Exide, and it lasts so much longer than the ordinary battery that it is the most economical kind you can buy.

The nearest Exide Service Station has an Exide the right size for your car.

Inquiries about batteries other than automobile batteries should be addressed to our St. Louis branch

Drummer and Mrs. Drummer Start Another Home

By Thornton W. Burgess

Time's too valuable to waste
When there's work demanding haste. —Mrs. Drummer.

DRUMMER the Woodpecker flew after Mrs. Drummer as she left the tree in the Long Lane where they had thought to make their home. He wondered where she was going. Never in his life had he felt more upset. Mrs. Drummer flew straight over to the Old Orchard where they had made their home the summer before. There she looked over every single tree. She didn't miss one. Drummer patiently followed from tree to tree. Two or three times he asked questions, but Mrs. Drummer paid no heed to them. She simply kept right on about what she was doing.

Now trees in the Old Orchard had been well taken care of, and Mrs. Drummer looked in vain for dead wood in which to cut out a new home. By the time she had looked over the last tree it was almost time for the Black Shadows to come creeping out from the Purple Hills.

"We'll have to start looking again the very first thing in the morning," declared Mrs. Drummer as she led the way to the secret place where they were in the habit of spending their nights.

"Don't you think we had better go over to the Green Forest? There are plenty of dead trees over there," said Drummer.

"Perhaps," replied Mrs. Drummer, and said nothing more.

But early the next morning as soon as they had eaten their breakfast Mrs. Drummer started off, and she didn't head toward the Green Forest. Instead she headed straight back for Farmer Brown's. She didn't waste any time in the Old Orchard, but flew over to a maple tree growing close to Farmer Brown's house. Now in this tree there was one big, dead stub of a branch. Farmer Brown had long intended to cut it over carefully while Drummer watched.

"I think this will do nicely," said she at last. "We'll get right to work and make a new home here. This wood is a little hard, but I guess we can manage it all right."

"But we haven't looked around in the Green Forest at all," Drummer protested. "I am sure we could find wood that would be easier to work in. Why, my dear, are you so set on being near Farmer Brown's house?"

Mrs. Drummer had already begun work. Back and forth, back and forth her head flew as with her stout little bill she cut out tiny chips. When at last she stopped to rest she replied to Drummer's question.

"Because," said she, "I believe this is the safest place for us. Mr.

Blacksnake isn't likely to come over here. He IS likely to visit the Green Forest. But if I know anything at all about him he will keep away from Farmer Brown's house. I tell you right now, Drummer, I never would have an easy moment if I had a home where Mr. Blacksake would be at all likely to pay us a visit. We have got to hurry and get this house done as soon as possible. We shall be late with our housekeeping as it is."

Back and forth, back and forth Mrs. Drummer's head began to fly again. (Copyright, 1923.)

The Head of the Table

By WINIFRED BLACK

OSCAR, the man who has trained more waiters, and taught more elevator boys how to become waiters, than any other man in this country, said, in a speech the other day, that America has the worst waiters in the world.

Well, Oscar, you certainly ought to know. What's the reason, do you think—do you know that, too, and if you do know, will you tell us?

I wonder. When a man's a waiter in Germany or in France, in England or in Italy, or anywhere else on earth but in the United States of America—he's a waiter—and that's all there is to it. Probably his father was a waiter before him—and glad of it.

It's born in him to be patient and deft and swift, and sure-footed, and quiet and deferential and courteous, and if he isn't all of these things he won't stay a waiter in any place of repute anywhere outside of America—very long.

He never thinks of being anything but a waiter—why should he? Tips are good, the work is not too hard, and, after all, one sees life from the side of a cafe table as one does not see it at the handles of a plow.

Here in America, if a man is a waiter he's always trying to be something else, or to prove to you that he has been something else or will be in a few minutes. I wonder why.

McGregor Settles the Question. The only way I can prove that I'm as good as the woman on the other side of the counter from me, is to play my part as well as she plays hers. I don't care whether she's a Princess in exile, or a society girl run away from home, or little Miss Nobody from nowhere.

All I want is for her to be a good saleswoman, and all she wants from me—or all she should want—is that I shall be a good customer.

Why should she bother her head trying to make me see that she considers herself "as good as I am"? If she is as good as I am, or better—which she is quite likely to be—she won't have to tell me of it in her manner.

I wish somebody would print that old story about Rob Roy McGregor, the great Scottish chief, and print it in letters of gold and paste it up in the rest room in every hotel, and every restaurant, and every shop of every kind, in the United States of America.

The one—don't you remember it—about the time McGregor came suddenly to an unexpected feast and overheard the underlings arguing as to which was the head of the table.

"Put McGregor here," whispered one, "this is the head of the table."

"No," argued the other, "here is the head, put McGregor here." And McGregor, himself, overhearing the discussion, strolled into the room, threw down his cap, adjusted his tartan, grabbed the first seat convenient to him and said in his broadest Scotch:

"Wherre the McGreggor sits, is the head of the table."

You Never Can Tell—

Now if the uneasy little person who didn't want to show you the samples you asked for this morning, because she thought you thought you were better than she, only knew this story, and understood the meaning of it, how much happier she'd be. And maybe if you understood it, yourself, you'd be happier, too, and make those who ought to serve you willingly and find it a pleasure—happier.

For—whisper—you never can tell whose name really is McGregor.

Mothers know dirt for what it is—and fear it.

They will not tolerate dirty schools, dirty streets, dirty homes or dirty children.

Lifebuoy Health Soap is probably the most widely used soap in the world because mothers appreciate its scientific protection against the dangers of dirt.

Mothers know that Lifebuoy lather goes down deep into every pore, and removes impurities. They know that Lifebuoy keeps the skin soft, pliable and glowing with health—that it is bland, pure and soothing to tenderest skin—even that of a baby.

More than Soap—
a Health Habit

Street dust ground into bare knees is always dangerous

HOW has mankind been freed from the terrible plagues which used to sweep over the world, half depopulating entire nations?

By just one thing—cleanliness.

There would be little sickness in an absolutely clean world. Soap has probably done more than anything else to guard health.

But even now your children are constantly exposed to dangerous infections. A bruised knee—any scratch—may develop blood poisoning if not protected from dirt. Why is it that every contagion takes its heaviest toll from children? Why do measles, scarlet fever, influenza and other serious diseases spread like wildfire among the young?

It is because too many children are not kept clean. One dirty child is a menace to a whole classroom.

Dirt is always dangerous. Street dust contains the germs of almost every known disease. Some playmates of your children may live where there is contagious sickness.

What can you mothers—you health doctors—do about it?

Keep your children scientifically, antiseptically clean. The danger largely disappears if they thoroughly purify hands and face three times a day with the wonderful lather of Lifebuoy Soap, frequently shampoo and bathe with this remarkable health soap.

Lifebuoy is not only as pure and bland as any soap ever made and highly beneficial to the skin—but it contains a great health element. Its rich, creamy lather carries deep into the pores an antiseptic which combats the impurities ever present, clears out the pores and leaves the skin soft, vibrant with health, cleansed of all odor—and safe.

Lifebuoy keeps skin always soft

Skin regularly cleansed with Lifebuoy is always soft and pliant because Lifebuoy contains no free alkali. Its chief elements are the rich, healthful oils of palm-fruit and cocoanuts—the purest and most soothing vegetable oils used in soap making.

The wholesome odor of Lifebuoy vanishes in a few seconds—the protection remains.

Lifebuoy is a scientific health protection and a skin conditioner and beautifier. In order to have it always ready at every place where there is running water it is a good idea to buy several cakes at a time. Leves Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

EXAMPLES OF THE HIGHER CRITICISM.

WHENEVER actors get together it is almost inevitable that sooner or later the subject of dramatic criticism will come up and that someone present will quote a notice favorable or unfavorable—but generally favorable—touching on his own work.

No symposium of this sort is complete without reference to the instance of tact displayed in print by a local reporter on a certain historic occasion in a small Middle Western city when ambitious nonprofessionals gave an incredibly awful performance of a classic drama. The newspaper man who had been detailed to cover the performance was wishful to avoid giving offense to the members of the cast, yet, in honesty, he could say nothing complimentary. So he merely wrote this:

"For the benefit of the new hospital fund, our leading amateurs presented 'Lady Audley's Secret' at the theater last night before a large audience of our best townspeople. The orchestra rendered several pleasing selections and the acoustics of the hall were never better."

Then there is the famous criticism done by an editor in Rising Sun, Ind., when a certain native-born prodigy assumed the role of the melancholy Dane. The criticism ran something like this:

"Among scholars there has long been a dispute as to whether the works attributed to Shakespeare were written by Shakespeare or by Bacon. The editor of this paper has hit upon a satisfactory way of settling for all time this ancient question. Let the tombs of both be opened. The one who turned over in his grave last night was the author of 'Hamlet'."

I am reminded also of what Kin Hubbard, better known as "Abe Martin," had to say years ago of a certain theatrical entertainment. For brevity, and yet for completeness, I think it would be hard to beat this:

"Al Jeffreys' 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' company played at the opera house last night. The Siberian bloodhound was badly supported."

Hap Ward, the comedian, furnishes one from his own experience. "We were playing a one-night stand in Oregon," said Hap. "On the morning following the performance I found a notice of our show on the front page of the town paper. The opening sentence was promising. I smiled to myself as I saw it. For it read as follows:

"Ward and Vokes in their new play, as given here last night, were not half bad."

"Then I read the second sentence and quit smiling. 'On the contrary, they were all bad!'"
